YOU KNOW, THE CITY THAT TRADED LENNY DYKSTRA TO THE PHILLIES FOR A NO-TALENT NAMED JUAN SAMUEL WHO WAS LATER TRADED TO THE DODGERS FOR ANOTHER NO-TALENT NAMED MIKE MARSHALL: The Grammys will be back in New York in 1991. February's the month. Radio City's the place. Dinkins is the mayor. To celebrate, the Grammys have added two new, very New York, categories: Best Alternative Music Recording and Best Rap Performance, Duo or Group.

MORRIS LEVY DIES: Morris Levy, the gruff-talking founder of Roulette Records, New York's legendary Birdland nightclub and the Strawberries retail outlets, died of liver cancer on May 21 at the age of 62. At the time of his death, Levy was under a Federal prison sentence of 10 years for extortion, although he had yet to begin serving his sentence.

THIS ONE'S FOR YOU, BUD: The Budweiser Superfest, a soul music extravavavavavavaganza if ever there was one, will make 23 stops this summer, beginning in Charlotte, North Carolina on June 15 and ending in Norfolk, Virginia on August 19 (that's a long time to get a hundred or so miles). Anyway, it's the 11th time that the Bud brewers have schlepped around a galaxy of stars, and this year's galaxy consists of Luther Vandross, After 7, Bell Biv DeVoe, Regina Belle, Maze featuring Frankie Beverly, Patti LaBelle, Tony! Toni! Toné!, Stephanie Mills and others. (Others?)

EXPERIENCING AN EXCELLENT EXPO: L.A.'s seventh annual Show-Biz Expo will run June 2-4 at the L.A. Convention Center. It covers 100,000 square feet of floor space and will welcome in excess of 13,000 attendees. Among said attendees will be composers Lee Holdridge and Stanley Clarke, who will headline a seminar titled "Film Music: Making the Right Choices." This year marks the Expo's first venture into serving the interests of the recording industry.

NEW WAVE: The Brooklyn Academy of Music's celebrated Next Wave Festival is set for October 2-December 9 this year with a special focus on Canada. Canada? Yeah, Canada. Among the music events scheduled are the premiere of Rhys Chatham's "The Heart Cries with Many Voices" and "The Greatest Masters of Persian Music."

KIBBLES AND BRITS: MTV will broadcast four hours of that big Nordoff-Robbins Music Therapy benefit, better known as Knebworth (that's where it's being held). July 14 is the date and Genesis, Paul McCartney, George Michael, Eric Clapton and Elton John are among the participants.

HOLLYWOOD GETS NIPPY: Whitney Houston has signed a first-look multi-picture development deal with 20th Century Fox for movies that she will star in and produce through her Nippy Productions.

SWEET 'N' LOW: Lo Cal music is again set to perform at L.A.'s most fashionable Melrose Gallery, Zola Fine Art. Lo Cal is a non-profit organization that promotes Los Angeles' most promising new composers in quarterly showcases. The last showcase drew a standing-room-only reaction, and the L.A. Weekly's John Payne called resident composer Chris Guardino's work "a revelation." Guardino is but one of the many talented forces whose work can be heard July 11 at Zola, which is probably the first L.A. art gallery to "show" music—which it does with uncompromised grace. For more information, contact Lo Cal president and award-winning composer Carlos Rodriguez at (213) 398-8302.

IF ONLY GUY LOMBARDO COULD HAVE LIVED TO SEE THIS: Ron Delsener's Beach Concerts Inc. was awarded a 10-year contract to produce concerts at Long Island's Jones Beach Amphitheatre. Part of the deal is that, following this season's concerts, more than six million bucks goes into renovating the open-air facility.

YEAH, YOU WRITE: Dark Star: The Roy Orbison Story by Ellis Amburn has just been published by Lyle Stuart ($18.95), while Dark Horse: The Private Life of George Harrison by Geoffrey Giuliano has just been published by E.P. Dutton ($18.95). Can a tell-all Jeff Lynne bio be far behind?...

TAKE A MESSAGE: Tele-Media '90, "the largest conference and exposition in the country covering the applications and uses of 1-900, 1-800 and other voice-information products and services for direct response, corporate marketing, advertising, promotions, entertainment, information access and fund-raising," is set for November 6-8 at New York's Hilton. PAPPA WAS A ROLLING STONE...ER...LED ZEPPLIN: The April 28 wedding of WTG recording artist Jason Bonham and Jan Charteris in surburban London resulted in an impromptu Led Zeppelin reunion. Bonham, on drums (c), joined forces with Robert Plant (l) on vocals, Jimmy Page (r) on guitar, and John Paul Jones (not pictured) on bass for a brief but thrilling set, which included the Zeppelin classics "Black Dog," "Rock and Roll," "Custard Pie" and "When the Levee Breaks." COVER STORY

M.C. Hammer

BY SCOTT HARVEY

A FORMER BATBOY FOR THE OAKLAND A'S, M.C. Hammer has been batting 1.000 since his 1988 platinum Capitol release, Let's Get It Started. His recently released second album currently resides atop the Cash Box album chart, shooting to #1 in only 11 weeks.

Hammer owes his dramatic success to his talent as a businessman and as a performer. In conjuction with his own label (Bustin' Records) and Capitol, Hammer will establish himself as an entrepreneurial producer of 10 new acts in the next few years. More important to his fans, however, is Hammer's own act, which pumps and moves with two huge albums and a dynmamic stage show set for this summer, with Michel'le as special guest.

The concerts will feature much of his newer work, allowing the artist to express his social views in an attempt to raise awareness and lower intolerence. Says Hammer of "Black is Black," it "is about getting back to basics and being proud of who we are. A lot of Black people—especially kids—have very low self-esteem because of the way we are treated by the media, society and the educational system." To counteract this problem, Hammer has donated some of his concert proceeds to the Cities in Schools organization. Also, all the proceeds from the hit single "Help the Children" will go to Hammer's own foundation, which he created to provide educational and motivational assitance to needy children.

In addition to his commitment to use rap as a vehicle for consciousness-raising, he also is committed to having fun. The new album reworks the 1974 Jackson 5 hit "Dancin' Machine," and includes a new version of "On Your Face," originally recorded by Earth, Wind & Fire. U Can't Touch Him. O

Stanley Jordan

ARTISTICALLY, STANLEY JORDAN'S STUDIO WORK for Bluenote/Capitol has had more ups than downs. Jordan is a creative jazz improvisor who has the ability to play with both technique and soul, although some of the electric guitarist's material has suffered from overproduction and a shortage of improvisation. But that wasn't a problem at all when he headlined the Roxy in Hollywood on May 21. Leading a trio that included labelmate Charnett Moffett (acoustic and electric bass) and Akiri Tana (drums), Jordan triumphantly demonstrated the art of improvisation on both mainstream and contemporary jazz forms.

The trio's set got off to an impressive start with a spirited reading of John Coltrane's "Cousin Mary," which was followed by a straight-ahead approach to the standard "Autumn Leaves." Moving on to more contemporary settings, Jordan continued demonstrating what an imaginative improvisor he can be on Michael Jackson's "The Lady in My Life" (which he changed from an R&B/pop ballad into intense, uptempo fusion) and Marvin Gaye's "What's Going On." Returning to a mainstream setting, Jordan attacked Miles Davis' "All Blues," taking an aggressive approach to a classic that has usually been played at a slow, relaxed pace. Moffett and Tana laid out while the leader performed a medley of the standard "Over the Rainbow" and Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven." Jordan's diversity is commendable.

EAST COASTING

THE CONTINENTAL DIVIDE is not the greatest place in the world to see a band. It's actually a Mexican restaurant/bar right off St. Mark's with a stage set up in one corner, and a sound system that...leaves something to be desired. The stage is pretty doggone small, and at least one member of every band I've ever seen there has ended up playing in the aisle, which makes it fairly difficult for people to get served or to get back to the washrooms without being assaulted by a guitar. Bitching aside, the food's pretty good, the drinks are pretty cheap, and the bookings are never dull. I've seen everything from Phoebe Legere's skewered lounge act to the theatrical stylings (I love that word) of Naked Sun to Sylvain Sylvain in that tiny little space. If you can pull of a gig in a Mexican restaurant, you can pull off anything, anywhere.

The latest in the anything, anywhere category is a band called Day for Night, who overcame incredibly bad sound and absolutely no room last weekend and played a better set than most bands do in a proper club. We were sitting in a really strange place, literally right next to the bass player, so we more or less had a band's eye view of the audience, which was entranced, totally mesmerized. From the first song, the completely acoustic (no mics, no nothing) "Merry Merry Merry," 'til the last note faded away, they just sat there, watching manic frontman Michael Peters writhe and flail through his songs—emotion made physical—or in our case, watching an almost virtouso performance by bass player Mike Sullivan. The potential in this band is enormous, especially live.

A little background: there is recorded material available, a seven-song EP called Lead Us Not Into Hesitation. Day for Night originally came from Athens, Ohio, but relocated to the unlikely music town of Richmond, Virginia (the home of King's Dominion) a couple of years ago. The band's first gig was a benefit called Jake Aid, to raise money for a cat called Jake who needed minor surgery. Since then, they've traversed the Midwest and the East Coast often enough to completely wear out one van and put a few miles on a second, and have opened for the likes of the Replacements, the Royal Crescent Mob, Love Tractor, Mudhoney and Dreams So Real. They play in New York fairly often as well, and I recommend taking note of the next time you see the name in the newspaper. Go see them, even if it's at your neighborhood Mexican restaurant.

PLACES TO GO AND PEOPLE TO SEE: In the unsigned-band department, the law firm of Carro, Spanbock, Kaster & Cuiffo are kicking off a series of New York showcases with a Lonestar Roadhouse date, Tuesday June 5, 6:30 p.m. The bands featured in the first installment are Guy Clark, K.R.U., Raja Rock and Joe Vadala.

The next night, June 6, we have an Atlanta, Georgia band called Follow for Now, a rather unique amalgam of rock, funk and R&B, at CBGB. There is a major buzz going around about this one, and I hear this gig is supposed to be A&R hell, which means a whole bunch of people watching each other to see if they are supposed to like the band or not. But then, that's what all of us do anyway, isn't it? I'll be there. Call for set time.

On June 7, EMI will be introducing its new, original, honest, sincere and intense "kick ass" retro-rock band, Alias, with a showcase at the China Club. The band is called Alias and so is the album, so it will be easy to remember... The invitation to the showcase is memorable as well (see picture), simply because I can't decide what exactly it is. My friend Kim says it's a sheriff's star, but I think it looks more like a hubcap.

The following week, mark your calendars for the 15th at Woody's, when former Lucy Show vocalist Mark Bandola brings his new band, the Chamberlains, to New York. The Chamberlains include former members of the Lucy Show and China Crisis, and will most likely have jangle-guy Mitch Easter sitting in, as well. The Chamberlains will then head out to L.A. for a showcase at Club Lingerie on June 22. Not to be missed.

Also not to be missed: the Church at the Ritz June 12, Psychic TV same place June 23, and the Wedding Present at midtown's newest live venue, the Marquee, June 14.

Peace.

Tairrie B.

BY ALEX HENDERSON

MEETING TAIRRIE B., ONE REALIZES that the highly outspoken Los Angeles-based rapper is no shrinking violet. A White female, Tairrie is a minority in a musical genre dominated by Black men. But during a recent interview, Tairrie was more interested in addressing her womanhood than her race. "I named my album The Power of a Woman because I'm on the female tip straight up," Tairrie asserts. "I'm a female chauvinist. I'm really into women showing what they can do."

The Power of a Woman, Tairrie's forthcoming debut album and the first album to be released on Eazy-E's MCA-distributed Comptown label, is hardcore rap from start to finish. One song in particular that's likely to stir controversy is "Ruthless Bitch." While male rappers use the word "bitch" as a dis, Tairrie has a different outlook. "I'm not putting myself down by calling myself a bitch," Tairrie stresses. "To me, bitch means 'being in total control of herself.' In a lot of old movies, the women were blonde bitches—the hard women who were running things."

Tairrie's views bring to mind the word "feminist." How does she feel about that word? "I used to think of a feminist as a woman who didn't wear make-up and dressed like a man," homegirl replies. "But a feminist doesn't have to be that way. To me, a feminist is just someone who's looking out for women. I'm not masculine in any way. I'm very feminine. I want to show that a woman can be feminine and hard at the same time." ○

The Sundays

BY SCOTT HARVEY

IN 1988, THE SUNDAYS BURST ONTO the crowded London music scene with a critically and commercially sucessful debut single, "Can't Be Sure." The press and public eagerly awaited the following album. And they waited, and waited. Finally, Reading, Writing and Arithmetic was released to loud critical acclaim. The praise is rightly earned for this down-to-earth, humorous foursome.

The band's strength is its reliance on simplicity. Their work boasts gentle, dreamy harmonies and thoughtful, impressionistic lyrics, which express disillusionment and reality. They are craftily realized by singer Harriet Wheeler, whoose smooth and light voice melodically guides the listener into a melancholy but nostalgically winsome world where the ordinary and mundane are beautiful. Thoughts and feelings of daily experience are open-endedly presented to reflect life's own uncertainty. The wistful outlook is rounded out by the band's lads—David Gavurin's guitar work is a voice unto itself. His textural weave gives the band's sound a fluid, arresting rhythm and confident stance. He summarily defines the band's position and humor, insisting, "Our music is not in any sense miserable." Instead, he finds it rather "chirpy." The fun side is definitely evident in the concept behind "I Kicked a Boy," which is story of boy meets girl, girl kicks boy down the stairs. Fluid and moving, all the Sundays' talents combine to announce a refreshing new sound that will be a benchmark for this new decade in music. ○

Michelle Wright

BY KAY KNIGHT

THE TIME IS WRIGHT NOW

MICHELLE WRIGHT, A DARK-HAIRED BEAUTY FROM ONTARIO, is red-hot and well on her way to making some major waves in the world of country music. Her current single, "New Kind of Love," is rocketing up the charts right now. Her style and rich, soulful voice are definitely a "new kind of country" and a breath of fresh air.

"I hope I have something that's fresh and new. I've been compared a lot to K.T. Oslin and to Lacy J. Dalton, which is alright by me, but I think I'm a bit more country that K.T.," Wright asserts. "But that type of groove and movement in the music is something that moves me."

Wright's music is apparently moving a growing number of fans these days. She is keeping very busy with television interviews, is expanding her touring band and, after finishing her debut album in the States, has just started back on the road, both in Canada and in the U.S.

Wright has been traveling on the road for nine years, garnering lots of attention and, recently, nominations for several awards in her native country. After receiving Canada's RPM Magazine's Big Country Award as Canada's 1989 Top Country Female, Wright was chosen as the opening act for Randy Travis' tour of Western Canada.

But this multi-talented entertainer says the big dream has always been to continue to grow and to take her music to a larger audience. "The American record deal is the ultimate dream, no matter what country you're from," states Wright.

Wright says that on her first album, recorded in Canada, she didn't really know herself well enough to be able to define all the influences she has had in music and all the experiences of her life. "On this album we were very able to define the sound and the type of groove that we wanted in the music and the type of things that I wanted to sing about."

What you hear when you listen to Michelle Wright's music is what you would see if you ever met her. The music has to fit her character before she feels right singing it. "I've come to the conclusion that my life is going to be an open book," Wright says, laughing. "During this album time, I'm in a wonderful relationship and everything in my life is definitely on the up and up, and the album shows that. Now, next year I may be totally depressed and my next album might be a real tearjerker."

The songs on Wright's debut album are lyrically true to her outlook on life. They reflect her energy, her sense of purpose and her commitment to succeed in spite of all obstacles.

"I have a very strong spiritual base in my life and I count on that to help me find answers sometimes," Wright reflects. "I believe that my career is happening right now because I'm ready. Three years ago, I don't think I would have been. I tried for a very long time to take on the world by myself and found sometimes that it was just too much for me to carry. I've learned that you have to have faith in something, no matter what it is.

"I've also learned over the years to make my life as simple as possible. I used to get so wrapped up in everything and couldn't sleep at night. Now, what you see is what you get. I'm someone who is very committed and works very hard at what I'm doing. I feel very fortunate, and also that success is in my future. This 'music thing' is for me, absolutely!" ○

In addition, he is writing and producing pop singles for artists Edie Maily and Nikki Newman, and the R&B group Room 115...

The Hemdale deal (l to r): John Daly, chairman, Hemdale Film Corporation; David Batteau, songwriter; Nicholas Cowan, president, Stamp, Inc.

GEFFEN MUSIC: Ronnie Vance, Geffen Music president, informs us from L.A. that it's Matthew Wilder Month at the company. Wilder is hot with "If I Could Have That Day Back," Howard Hewett's new Elektra single and "Justice in Truth," co-written with Brenda Russell and due out on her next A&M release. He is just coming off Natalie Cole's "Wild Women Do" hit single from the just-platinum Pretty Woman soundtrack (EMI), produced by her hubby Andre Fisher, who incidently co-produced the upcoming Brenda Russell album. Producer Ric Wake is ready to cut Wilder's "To Anyone" with Sheena Easton for MCA, and Wilder is presently writing with Wang Chung's lead singer/writer Jack Hues for Hue's debut solo album for Geffen. Last but not least, hit producer Michael Omartian is recording Wilder's "How Fast Can Forever Go?" with WB sensation Raymone Carter (who I hear is a monster vocalist/artist), with this song co-witten by the legendary Sammy Cahn. To say Matthew Wilder is hot is an understatement...

ZOMBA MUSIC: I'm glad to hear from David Renzer, based in New York, who is back at Zomba after a short stint at MCA. He has lots of action with the likes of Mutt Lange, closing in on the #1 single spot with Heart's "All I Wanna Do Is Make Love to You" (Capitol), and Alannah Myles (Atlantic) climbing the charts with her second hit single, "Love Is" (re-worldwide pub deal with Zomba)... The officially gold-plus Tommy Boy/WB act Digital Underground is also in a worldwide pub deal... Jonathan Butler—whose new instrumental-only EP is on Jive Records—wrote Regina Burgees' new CBS release "This Is Love," which is the #1 most added R&B single in the country... Writer Tommy Allen enters the R&B charts with the highest new entry, Jeff Redd's new Uptown/MCA single, "Love High"... Look for Bell Biv Devoe's second MCA single, "Do Me," co-written and produced by Carl Borelly. Their debut album is platinum and still flyin' high... Loris Holland, recently #1 with Ruby Turner's "It's Gonna Be Alright," is currently top 40 with the follow up, "Paradise." As you read this, he is in the studio producing Jonathan Butler's new vocal LP... Last but for sure not least, congratulations to k.d. lang, who recently signed to a worldwide pub deal with Zomba for her officially gold LP, Absolute Torch and Twang...

WARNER/CHAPPELL: W/C has just acquired two Tobias brothers catalogues, Tobey Music and Henry Tobias Music Co., from the brothers Henry and Harry Tobias and the estate of Charles Tobias, often referred to collectively as "the royal familiy of Tin Pan Alley." Included are such hit-parade standards as "Miss You," "If I Had My Life to Live Over," "Wait for Me Mary," "Sail Along Sil'vry Moon" and many others. The estate of Charles Tobias, operated by his son Fred in New York, includes such all-time hits as "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree" and "The Old Lamplighter," just to name a couple. W/C Music also publishes several well-known songs by Charles, including the famous Bugs Bunny theme, "Merrily We Roll Along," "We Did It Before," "Comes Love" and "Time Waits for No One."

NEW COMPANIES DEPT.: Stamp Inc. (Screen Television and Media Publishing), the new music publishing company launched by Hemdale Film Corporation, has signed an exclusive songwriter's agreement with David Batteau. In addition, Stamp has acquired the David Batteau catalogue of songs, which consists of over 300 titles. Batteau will serve as staff writer for Stamp, and has just completed writing, with co-writer/producer Andre Fisher, the title song for the upcoming Hemdale film, entitled Don't Tell Her It's Me. The romantic comedy stars Steve Guttenberg, Shelly Long, Jami Gertz and Kyle MacLachlan. "Next to You," co-written by Batteau, Darryl Brown and Madeline Stone, has been slated as a single from SBK's very successful Wilson Phillips debut album, currently top 30 on the charts and certified gold. Batteau has a long track record of hits, which this year includes winning the Dove award for best Christian rock song, "The River Broken," recorded by Russ Taff...

YOU READ IT HERE FIRST DEPT.: The Los Angeles Songwriters Showcase (LASS) has been quietly meeting with top executives for the purpose of restructuring and expanding. From what I've heard, they are getting ready to take major steps in the song and entertainment industry. I wish them the best of luck. They are truly special...

Rappin' With the Retailers

BY C.J. and JEFF KARP

TOWER RECORDS, New York, New York

Reporting: Maria Wibbles

"Carly Simon did a wonderful in-the-store for us this week, and [it] pushed her up to number two. David Bowie is still holding in there strong. We do o.k. with k.d. lang and Nanci Griffith. Dwight Yoakam is probably one of our stronger male country performers. En Vogue came out strong and is still selling consistently. Johnny Gill is up there making some noise. A Tribe Called Quest is also making a lot of noise. Depeche Mode, Peter Murphy, Michael Penn and Everything But the Girl are doing it, alternative-wise."

LOOKING AHEAD: "Madonna is coming out on May 22 and we're all anticipating it with great excitement! The Pretenders, one of my favorites...Chrissy Hynde is coming back. It's apparently a 'ghostly cast of players,' and it will be interesting to see what it is. We're looking for Snap's May 25 release to do very well."

POPLAR TUNES, Memphis, Tennessee

Reporting: Jim Burge

"Sinead [O'Connor] is still the best thing we've got going as far as pop. We're selling a lot of Don Henley. He still rips right along. Wilson Phillips and Giant are doing well. We're selling Randy Travis and Clint Black real well. R&B is where we excel. Everything is outstanding—M.C. Hammer, Bell Biv Devoe, Johnny Gill, Tony Toni Toné and En Vogue. We're selling tons of After 7. The biggest thing we've got going independent-wise is the Ghetto Boys on Rap-A-Lot. Sir Mix-A-Lot, Ron C and Young & Restless are selling real well. The Boo-Ya T.R.I.B.E. on 4th & B'Way is doing real well. All the Malico stuff sells like crazy—Johnny Taylor, Little Milton and Bobby Bland. This thing by the Dogs on Joey Boy, we're selling a lot of that. Digital Underground is selling real well."

LOOKING AHEAD: "The Audio 2 thing and Perfect Gentlemen are both going to be good. Paula Abdul and Tony Toni Toné are going to be real, real hot! We're already having calls for the Keith Sweat. That's going to be a monster record!"

"M.C. Hammer has been a huge seller for close to a month. I'm impressed! It's getting incredible crossover into a white pop market. It's sold the most pieces this week. Pretty Woman, for a soundtrack, is doing real well. It has for a couple weeks and has gotten all the way up to number five. The Paula Abdul remix thing jumped all the way up to number seven here. One thing that's doing real well here is a group from Manchester, England called the Sundays. I was impressed by how quickly it jumped on! What's doing real well here that's something a little different is Suzanne Vega. I've noticed that every time we play it in the store we sell some. Reggae does real well here. UB40 has been in and out of the top 25 for a while, and I sell box after box of Legend by Bob Marley. The Billy Idol came off real strong. With jazz, Ottmar Liebert on Higher Octave gets good in-store and good retail. Bobby Caldwell, which is on Japanese PolyGram is real strong, and so is Lee Ritenour. Special Effects are selling really well. New age-wise, Kitaro, Mannhiem Steamroller on American Grammaphone and David Arkenstone on Narada are selling really well."

LOOKING AHEAD: "I'm sure Madonna will be huge. She could just giggle on the record and it would sell! Steve Vai is really, really anticipated. We constantly get calls on it. Larry Carlton has a new one coming out and we think that's going to be good. The new Pat Metheny will be hot."

"The [M.C.] Hammer is smoking! The Dice [Andrew Dice Clay] has shown some improvement after his SNL appearance. Faster Pussycat is better than it's ever been. The Zippers are starting to happen. They're a local band on our developing-artist program. Other bands that are on our developing-artist program that are showing some good signs of life are Hurricane, A Tribe Called Quest on Jive and Baton Rouge, another AOR metal band on Atlantic. We're seeing some great breaks on X-Clan's 4th & B'Way album, To the East Blackwards. We're seeing some good moves, especially out of Indianapolis. We had an impressive debut out of Bruce Dickinson this week. Perfect Gentlemen also had a nice out-of-the-box debut this week. Country is real good. Clint Black continues to cruise in the top 20 for us. The Kentucky HeadHunters are top 40 for us. The Allman Brothers ain't got nothin' on these guys! On the indie front, we've got the Digital Underground coming in top 10. We've got action on Profile out of the Rob Base. Salt-N-Pepa continues to be good top 100. NWA is in there every week and will be for God knows how long."

LOOKING AHEAD: "There's supposed to be a new NWA album on the horizon that we're really looking forward to. We're really expecting the new Madonna to blow out the door. The question with Madonna is will the torch songs carry."

HOUSE OF GUITARS, Rochester, New York

Reporting: Armand Schaubroeck

"The Damn Yankees are flying. I think they're going to be the next Skid Row. Everybody's asking for Madonna's I'm Breathless. The Paula Abdul dance mix is flying. Country-wise, Clint Black is selling real well. Kentucky HeadHunters are doing pretty well, selling well on CD especially. Kathy Mattea is flying out of here. Notting Hillbillies are doing extra well here because it's got a lot of guitar. Bell Biv Devoe, Technotronic, Digital Underground, Sir Mix-A-Lot and M.C. Hammer are all going well. Najee and Gamalon are going very fast on CD. On the alternative end, the Lou Reed/John Cale and the Dead Milkmen are doing well. People have been asking for Chesterfield Kings' Sounds From the Berlin Wall.

LOOKING AHEAD: "Kim Waters is starting to take off. Yngwie Malmsteen is getting good in-store response. Van Morrison is starting to take off. We're constantly getting calls for the new Steve Vai album. A lot of people are asking for the New Kids on the Block, of course. We're starting to sell the single, which just came in today and is already flying."

Jetsons Merchandising Takes Off

THE JETSONS. TO SOME OF US that name recalls fond memories of a cartoon family we grew up watching and (myself included) still continue to watch. To others, it means a potentially huge retail explosion. To prepare for Universal Pictures and Hanna-Barbera's summer release of Jetsons: The Movie, a full-lenth animated motion picture, retailers will be stocking up on Jetson merchandise. The Musicland Group (Musicland, Sam Goody's and Sun Coast Music Stores) will have the merchandise on the shelf by this month, and will feature "Jetson's Boutiques" in thier stores. The boutiques will contain quite an assortment of merchandise, including the movie soundtrack, home videos, sweatshirts, watches, pajamas, boxer shorts, leather jackets, activewear and souvenirs.

Sunsport of Seattle, Washington, who have been licensed by Hamilton Projects, are imprinting T-shirts with the Jetsons logo. L.A.'s Too Cute, Inc. will be introducing denim jackets and nylon bomber jackets sporting the Jetsons logo.

Tower Records/Uptown in New York City was visited last week by Arista's Carly Simon, who dropped in to sign copies of My Romance, her latest release. NEW KIDS IN THE COURT: New Kids on the Block are suing Revolutionary Comics, which publishes a hilarious "unauthorized" biography of the children's rise to the top. The group feels its copywrite on the name allows it to abridge First Amendment protections and prohibit anything using the name, which is featured on the comic book's cover. The court, in a preliminary hearing, disagreed, so it's still available.

FINKELSTEIN DIES: Herman Finkelstein, who was ASCAP's general counsel from 1936-74, died on May 20 of a heart attack at the age of 87.

THE ROYALTY FAMILY: The Songwriters Hall of Fame will induct Smokey Robinson, Michel Legrand and Jim Croce into its hallowed halls during its 21st annual dinner, May 30 at the New York Hilton at Rockefeller Center. Merv Griffin, the only guy richer than some of these songwriters, will host; Charles Koppelman and Martin Bandier, they of EMI Music Publishing, will receive the Abe Olman Publisher's Award.

ON THE BANDSTAND ONCE AGAIN: One of the highlights of ASCAP's seventh annual Pop Awards Dinner was the presentation of the society's American Classic Award to Dick Clark. Honored for his contribution in bringing countless great songs and new talents to generations of music lovers, Clark received the award from ASCAP president Morton Gould and surprise guest Lionel Richie. The ceremony also selected Diane Warren as Songwriter of the Year and Paula Abdul's "Straight Up" as Song of the Year. Pictured at the event (l to r): Lionel Richie, Dick Clark and Morton Gould.

Rockers Donate Ticket Revenue to Cities in Schools

BY SCOTT HARVEY

RECENTLY, ADVERTISEMENTS HAVE begun appearing, announcing the participation of Don Henley, Janet Jackson, Madonna, Prince, Lionel Richie and Tina Turner in a fund-raising effort for a little-known charity called Cities in Schools (CIS). Each artist has agreed to donate to CIS 25 cents for each ticket sold to his or her recent concerts. It sounds small, but the cumulative effect is tremendous, and Cities in Schools is a cumulative effort for which no gift is too small.

Cities in Schools is a national nonprofit organization dedicated to keeping children in school by bringing to high-risk students the social services they need. CIS started in the early '70s with a storefront alternative school lead by Bill Milliken, and has grown under his direction to a Presidentially endorsed service for 41 communities at 183 different sites. The intent is to bring into the schools personnel who can help troubled youth before it is too late. CIS coordinates social workers, employment counselors, recreation coaches, educators, health professionals and friends to create an in-school support system for at-risk students.

CIS feels that by helping students with the proper resources and individualized attention, they are able to build self-esteem in each child and avoid the educational exodus that is largely motivated by low self-worth. The scholastic flight results in an annual $240 billion drain of lost income, taxes and social services. In addition, 85% of juveniles in the courts system and 75% of the prison population are dropouts.

Accordingly, the 25-cent gift by Madonna and Prince is quite large and vital. The overall impact of these gifts over the years has changed thousands of lives. Erica Carson is one such life. She is CIS graduate who now attends Cornell University on a Lionel Richie scholarship. Another recipient of the scholarship is Canveta Burke, who says, "This program saved my life. I was a teenage mother. So many told me 'You'll never be anything,' but I am."

Richie's annual scholarships and personal involvement with the children is representative of the entire industry, which has been very supportive of this effort. Both Herb Alpert and Jerry Moss of A&M have actively participated since the late '70s. Among others, Irving Azoff, Burt Bacharach, Freddy DeMann, business manager Jerry Breslauer and producer Jimmy Iovine have all made significant contributions to this cause. The recent announcement of the 25-cent-a-ticket donation helps educate an already generous industry so that others may join the effort in whatever way possible.

SHOCK OF THE NEW

BY KAREN WOODS

ONCE UPON A TIME, there was a city called New York. In this city was an area called the Lower East Side, and a street called the Bowery. On this Bowery was a club called CBGB, which was and is the spiritual birthplace of a new kind of music—music that is louder, faster, more aggressive and angrier than anything ever heard before. CBGB still exists (and the best and the brightest still push their equipment through the narrow bar to get to the stage), but the kings and queens who started it all have for the most part disappeared—for venues with back doors and loading zones, for lucrative solo contracts, or for life outside the rock and roll kingdom. But the legends still exist, handed down generation to generation, about bands like Richard Hell and the Voidoids, the Ramones, Blondie, Talking Heads, Television and the Dictators.

The Dictators were perhaps one of the loudest, fastest, most aggressive and angriest of them all (hey, "fairest" only works if you're Sleeping Beauty). They released their first album in 1975, and managed to keep it together for two more albums and three more years before schisms, excesses and the end of a record deal split them up. The line-up in those days was bassist/songwriter Andy Shernoff, Ross the Boss on guitars, Scott "Top Ten" Tempner on rhythm guitar, Stu-Boy King (and later Richie Teeter) on drums and "crazy-roadie-turned-crazy-singer" (thanks, Ira) Handsome Dick Manitoba. A few reunion gigs in the early '80s resulted in a ROIR live release called F 'em If They Can't Take a Joke, and the elevation of the Dictators to mythical stature. They are/were one of those bands that everyone has heard of, but not many people have actually heard. Legends after their own time, if you will.

But now, there's this punk/thrash/metal/rock hybrid band with an album called ...and you? out on MCA. It sounds delightfully familiar, like it could have come screaming out of the basement at 315 Bowery—like a blast from the past, but by guys who can actually play their instruments. The band is called Manitoba's Wild Kingdom, and has a couple of familiar names in the line-up, Handsome Dick himself for example, and Andy Shernoff, Ross the Boss, and a new drummer called J.P. "Thunderbolt" Patterson. It isn't the Dictators, but you wouldn't really want it to be the Dictators. It is loud, funny, brutally honest, obnoxious party music with a "user-beware" caveat—a Bronx cheer with guitars. It makes you remember everything you ever loved about punk rock, both the "punk" part and the "rock" part. In short, this is the most fun you can have with headphones on.

So there's no alternative but to catch up with old Handsome Dick himself, and see what's up. You're back. We're happy to see you. Are you happy to be here?

"At the risk of sounding like the dearly departed Sammy [Davis, Jr.]," Manitoba says, hand over heart, "I love this business. I'm really happy. If they told me I could play center field for the Yankees, I might be as happy. But since my legs aren't what they used to be, this is good." He looks happy. He actually exudes happiness. "Being in a rock and roll band for a living, to me, is the greatest thing in the world."

What is the best part of the greatest thing in the world? "That's a tough question... For one moment, or for a feeling, it's playing live, because it's so manic, so intense—you're just bouncing off the walls. You feel like vomiting, then you go out onstage and you sweat it all out—like a fever building up inside of you, then you sweat it out and you feel better. That's probably the best part, in terms of intensity. But all of it is a lot of fun. Recording is fun. I like doing interviews, because it's all..." He thinks for a moment, then flashes what could only be described as a wicked grin. "To be honest, it's being the center of attention. Right now I'm the center of your attention. When we're in the studio, I'm the center of attention for everyone at the board. Playing live, I'm the center of attention..." he laughs. "I like it all. Egomaniacs only need apply for this job."

I try to dance around the implications of the group's name: Manitoba's Wild Kingdom, with Handsome Dick as the eponymous Manitoba. But at the core of the band are Andy Shernoff's songs, and to a certain extent his vision as well, so I fail. Manitoba knows exactly what I'm getting at, and tosses out a couple of examples of how this sort of relationship has worked in the past: "Pete Townshend's songs, Roger Daltrey singing. Or Frankenstein..." I get the point. "I do want to write songs eventually, either by myself or with someone else. I have ideas written down. I have lines written down, names, concepts... I actually write a column for this magazine called Traffic. I think I'm a pretty good writer... Listen to me—I'm so humble." Another laugh. "Being Handsome Dick Manitoba, I can't be this humble. So I'm a great writer. I'm the greatest writer in the world. Truman who?" Now I'm laughing. "I have no problem expressing myself. It makes me feel good. But songwriting is a different art form. I'm not a musician. I don't play any instruments, so... I think I will—I just need someone to teach me the craft. But for now, I think Andy's really talented. I think he's a unique talent. I totally admire him. I love his songwriting."

In addition to this admiration, and the fact that they have been friends for years, Manitoba says that he and Shernoff are "cut from the same cloth, but personally, we're opposites—emotional/unemotional, wear everything on your sleeve/everything is quiet and private, gregarious/reserved. [You guess which is which.] But there is something that just clicks. I tell his girlfriend that between us we make the perfect human being. There's a big chunk missing from him, and there's a big chunk missing from me, and between us, we make a perfect person."

Stay tuned.

ROCK & ROOTS

BY LEE JESKE

SMOKIN': Irma Thomas (left), the "Soul Queen of New Orleans," poses with Philip Morris' Sid Wood and Benson & Hedges Blues' Jane Yusko to celebrate the blues festival's return to Atlanta, June 10-17. Stevie Ray Vaughan, B.B. King, Joe Cocker and others'll join La Thomas at the event.

DONNYBROOK: Everybody who knew Donny Hathaway suggested that he did not jump out of that window at New York's Essex House in 1979, although the door was locked from the inside. In any case, Hathaway was a genuine talent, a real soul singer in the days (the '70s) when plasticity was beginning to reign in what was then starting to be called the "urban contemporary" field. Atlantic has just released the ultimate Donny Hathaway package, a generous 70-minute-plus CD, A Donny Hathaway Collection, which makes the case for a rediscovery of Hathaway. His hits with Roberta Flack are here (~~"Where is the Love," of course, was the biggest) as are fine examples of Hathaway as an interpreter of other songwriters ("A Song for You," "To Be Young, Gifted and Black," "What's Goin' On"...) and as a songwriter himself ("The Ghetto," "This Christmas"...). In fact, it's an exemplary set except for one thing: shamefully skimpy information. Three people produced this set—Sylvia Rhone, Merlin Bobb and Bob Porter—certainly one of them must have at one point said, "Do you think people would like personnel information? Dates? Chart information?" Etcetera. Good work on the CD; crummy work on the packaging.

FUN, FUN, FUN: Now this is how to reissue rock and roll. There's probably some stick-in-the-mud out there with a complaint about Capitol's CD roll-out of the Beach Boys' catalogue, but I don't want to hear about it. This, it seems to me, is reissue perfection, pure and simple. Can you fit two albums on one CD? Do it! Can you still squeeze in rare, unreleased material? Do it! Can you get the original creator (one Brian Wilson) involved in the stuff, although he's now on another label? Do it! Have you got room for lengthy, detailed liner notes and rare photos? Right, throw 'em on in!

What we have here, to start, is Pet Sounds, finally (with three extra tracks); and double-play discs of four of the first five Beach Boys albums, all with extra material. That's Surfin' Safari and Surfin' U.S.A. on one CD and Surfer Girl and Shut Down, Volume 2 on the other. Mark Linett did the compiling and coordinating, David Leaf wrote the informed notes, and Brian Wilson contributed a typically loopy essay for each album ("During the production of Pet Sounds I dreamt I had a halo over my head," stuff like that). The sound is superb, and even the earliest music holds up surprisingly well (Pet Sounds indeed comes off as a masterpiece). There's nothing to complain about. Nothing.

With Little Deuce Coupe/All Summer Long, Today/Summer Days and Summer Nights and Concert/Live in London due in June and Smiley Smile/Wild Honey, Friends/20/20 and Party/Stack O'Tracks due in July, this summer—as the remnants of the Beach Boys go slogging down that old nostalgia trail for the ten thousandth time—should, on the beaches of Fire Island, Venice Beach and wherever else aging baby-boomers gather for some R&R, be a surfin' safari indeed.

TWIGS: Rhino, bless their horned little hearts, has just reissued a genuine NRBQ classic, Grooves in Orbit, along with a rare Roches EP, No Trespassing. For those who wonder why nobody makes pop music like the Beach Boys anymore, I point you to NRBQ, who were popping up a tiny storm at the Lone Star last weekend... Mick Taylor has a new album out, Stranger in This Town (Maze), on which he has the chutzpah to do a Rolling Stones cover, along with a bunch of stale blues standards. Mick sounds like he has taken singing lessons from Duane Allman, a frightening thought, but his guitar playing is okay—listenable, danceable, roadhouse blues from a dried-out Rolling Stone. Hmmmm... B.B. King, who probably has a trophy room the size of a barn, will this month add to it a Songwriters Hall of Fame Lifetime Achievement Award and an honorary Doctor of Fine Arts Degree from Rhodes College... The new Jeff Healey album, Hell to Pay, due momentarily from Arista, features guest spots from George Harrison (on, believe it or not, a cover of "While My Guitar Gently Weeps"), Mark Knopfler, Jeff Lynne and other notables. Healey'll be opening for Bonnie Raitt hither and thither this summer... For those who wonder why gospel music these days no longer sounds too much like gospel music, I suggest picking up the stunning new Marion Williams album, Surely God Is Able (Spiritfeel). That woman—who had a direct influence on Little Richard and many other secular singers—can still sing, jack. Also from those same people is Mother Smith and Her Children, a compilation of recent and classic recordings of the legendary Willie Mae Ford Smith and a few of her progeny (Brother Joe May, Edna Gallmon Cooke and Martha Bass, whose son, David Peaston, is on organ).

HEAVY METAL

BY ALEX HENDERSON

STUDIO SAVAGERY: It's still undecided whether or not Mother Love Bone, whose lead vocalist Andy Wood suffered a drug-related death on March 19, will continue. When PolyGram signed MLB, the band's Led Zeppelin-influenced boogie had earned it a loyal following in its native Seattle, Washington, and in nearby Tacoma. After touring in support of its debut EP, Shine, MLB recorded its forthcoming Apple album during the fall of 1989. Listening to an advance cassette of Apple, which has a June 10 release date, it's obvious just how much Wood contributed to the band... The second solo album by Doro Pesch, former lead singer for German metal posse Warlock, is due out on July 10 on PolyGram. The self-titled album was produced by Kiss' Gene Simmons and ex-Black 'n' Blue banger Tommy Thayer, although Doro is less metallic than such Warlock gems as True as Steel or Triumph and Agony but is definitely harder and heavier than say, Pat Benatar's most recent albums. An advance cassette courtesy of Concrete Marketing exposed this listener to "Unholy Love" (which will be Doro's first single and video) and to aggressive yet melodic hard-rock dopejams like "Rock On," "Alive" and "Something Wicked This Way Comes." Even the album's most melodic offerings—including "Rare Diamond," "Only You" and the killer rock ballad "I'll Be Holding On"—have their share of powerful electric guitar... The Dogs D'Amour are in Los Angeles recording their third American album for China/PolyGram, which is scheduled to release it in September. Ric Browde, known for his work with Joan Jett, Poison and Faster Pussycat, is producing the disc, which may be titled Straight?!... Wild Rags originally planned to release Hellwitch's Syzygial Miscreancy in May but has moved the album's release up to late July. The Florida-based Hellwitch isn't the only Wild Rags band with an attention-getting name. Other mosh posses on Wild Rags include Blasphemy, Toxodeth, Blood, Sadistic Intent, Nuclear Death (not to be confused with Nuclear Assault), Sufferance and Hexx... In June, Epic is scheduled to release Meliah Rage's Solitary Solitude, the Pretty Maids' Jump the Gun and self-titled albums by psychedelic hard rockers Burning Tree and the River Dogs, whose lead guitarist, Vivian Campbell, is a graduate of Whitesnake...

DORO

HIGHWAY TO HELL: Flotsam & Jetsam is scheduled to begin a U.S. tour in Flagstaff, Arizona on June 14 and continue playing American dates through late August. The Phoenix-based thrashers are touring in support of their current Alex Perialas-produced album on MCA, When the Storm Comes Down. Timid souls need not venture too close to the mosh pit... Alannah Myles is the opening act on Robert Plant's international Manic Nirvana Tour, which began in Europe on May 1. After European dates, Led Zeppelin's one-time lead singer is scheduled to play 23 American cities in July and August. Plant's current album on Es Paranza/Atlantic, Manic Nirvana, is gold and rapidly approaching platinum... Spread Eagle continues touring the U.S. with Vain until June 20. Spread Eagle's debut album on MCA is a killer. If you fancy hard rock with a nice, garage-like rawness, Spread Eagle is a band to bang your head to, dude... Another MCA posse to watch out for is Cold Sweat, which includes former Keel member Mark Ferrari. Any band with the same name as a James Brown song can't be all bad...

VILLAINS ON VIDEO: Headbanger video magazine Hard 'N' Heavy has signed a North American distribution deal with MCA Distributing Corporation, which will greatly increase its availability throughout the U.S. and Canada. The deal takes effect with the release of Hard 'N' Heavy, Volume VII and a special thrash issue, both of which are scheduled for release in early June. Meanwhile, Hard 'N' Heavy intends to increase its European distribution by signing with Virgin Vision in Western Europe. Additionally, the video mag's deal with StoryFirst Distribution will make it available in the Soviet Union by late summer and pave the way for in-depth coverage of the Soviet rock scene... Babylon A.D. has finished filming a video for "The Kid Goes Wild," which is the third single from the band's current Arista album...

EAR RINGERS

❑ YNGWIE MALMSTEEN: Eclipse (Polydor 843 361-2)

In Eclipse's liner notes, Yngwie Malmsteen thanks Jimi Hendrix and Ludwig Van Beethoven. Fusing classical music and rock is difficult enough; doing so without sounding silly or pretentious is even more difficult. But singer/guitarist Malmsteen has managed to pull it off without being pretentious and continues to do so on the captivating Eclipse. The Swedish metalhead doesn't beat you over the head with his passion for classical music, but it's prominent enough to make his gothic metal unique. Although Malmsteen doesn't approach the electric guitar in a crunching way a la Motley Crüe's Nikki Sixx or Aerosmith's Joe Perry, his sound is bonecrunching yet melodic on such gothic metal as "Judas," "Motherless Child" and "See You in Hell (Don't Be Late)." Listening to Eclipse, one thinks of everyone from bikers to Bartok.

ON JAZZ

A BATCH OF SATCH: Louis Armstrong, the greatest figure in jazz history (any arguments?), will be the subject of a special two-part NPR broadcast in June. Louis Armstrong: The First 90 Years (we know now he was born in 1901, not 1900, but who's counting?) consists of two shows: The Kid From Algiers, a two-hour biography hosted by Billy Taylor (June 17); and The Second Line, hosted by Ossie Davis and more of a musical tribute (June 26).

What follows is an open memo to George Butler*. The rest of you can avert your eyes:*

George, you've got Wynton Marsalis, Branford Marsalis, Marlon Jordan, the Dirty Dozen Brass Band, Harry Connick Jr. and other New Orleansians under contract over there at Columbia. Next year is Armstrong's 90th birthday. Queens College, which has all his papers, can use some help turning his home in Corona into a museum and organizing those papers. How about an Armstrong tribute album from the New Orleans guys? (Hey, you can even rope in guests for vocals—Kid Creole comes to mind.) I mean, Wynton Marsalis and Harry Connick Jr. doing Armstrong/Earl Hines, the entire Marsalis family (with the front line of Wynton on trumpet, Branford on clarinet and Delfeayo on trombone) doing updated Hot Sevens, etc., etc. And you can put out a companion piece of Armstrong doing the same tunes, culled from the vaults. Great idea, right?

STANDING PAT: Gee, Pat Metheny's really into the all-star thing this year. First we get the reunion thing with Gary Burton (album and tour). Then comes this new Jack De Johnette album, Parallel Realities, which features Metheny, De Johnette and Herbie Hancock. Now word comes that that heavyweight cast, augmented by bassist Dave Holland, is about to tour (beginning in Scottsdale, Arizona on June 9; ending in Saratoga, New York on July 1; and including the Hollywood Bowl on June 16 and New York's Beacon Theatre on June 30). Is that it? Uh-uh. Metheny's next album of his own, Questions and Answers, features a trio with Holland and drummer Roy Haynes. Geffen'll release it on June 12. Metheny says the album was a Christmas present to himself; he didn't necessarily expect to release it. Gee, his Group must be getting lonely.

A THOUGHT: With the death of Dexter Gordon, we've been reading again about how U.S. jazz expatriates are treated better in Europe—more respect, that kind of thing. One thing that is rarely said is that drug laws in parts of Europe in the '50s and '60s were a lot less severe than in America. You could do hard time in Philadelphia for drugs, but you weren't likely to get the same treatment in, say, Amsterdam. That, and the difference in racial attitudes, was more important a factor in many musicians leaving than the "respect" quotient, I'd suspect.

TOM TOM CLUB: Antonio Carlos Jobim is called "Tom Jobim" in Brazil (his sister dubbed him Tom when he was small). All his Brazilian albums say "Tom Jobim" on them. It always confuses Americans, who think Tom Jobim must be a brother or son. RCA recently quietly issued a fine album by Jobim and the excellent vocalist Miucha, Echoes of Rio, which takes the confusion to ridiculous heights. It features, we're told, previously unreleased Jobim performances with the songwriter "joined here by talented Miucha and Jobim's son Tom." Half the songs, we're told, are by Miucha and Antonio Carlos Jobim, half are by Miucha and Tom Jobim. They are all, of course, by Miucha and Antonio Carlos Jobim. (Jobim's son, by the way, is named Paulo.)

BOPPING AROUND: George Benson and Hollywood film composer Jerry Goldsmith received honorary Doctor of Music degrees from Berklee College of Music, May 12... If you find yourself in Copenhagen on June 11, head for the Jazzhus Montmartre for a tribute to Dexter Gordon in the big guy's old stomping grounds. A bunch of his stomping partners—including Kenny Drew, Niels-Henning Oersted Pedersen, Alex Riel and Johnny Griffin—will get the bebop pumping beginning at about 9:00... I once asked Stephane Grappelli—who has played with just about everybody you can think of—if there was a musician with whom he'd never played in whose company he'd like to resin his bow. His response was instantaneous: "McCoy Tyner. I think he's a genius." McCoy Tyner and Stephane Grappelli? In the words of Tevye, "Sounds crazy, no?" I guess not: One to One, Tyner and Grappelli, will be released by Milestone this summer, just after Blue Note releases its new Tyner album, which includes duets with John Scofield, amongst others... Don Pullen just returned from a one-week tour of Cuba. (Cuba?) He begins a U.S. tour on June 18 in Santa Cruz. (Santa Cruz?) Look for his next trio album from Blue Note next month.

JAZZ PICKS

❑ ROY HARGROVE: Diamond in the Rough (Novus 3082-2-N)

It's getting to the point where we listen to an album like this—the debut of a gifted, teenaged hard-bop trumpet dynamo who has soaked up Clifford Brown and everybody else you can think of—and are no longer surprised that the playing, ideas and emotions contained therein are warm, sharp and mature. Hargrove, let it be said, is the real deal.

❑ MOSE ALLISON: My Backyard (Blue Note CDP 7 93840)

Another fine album by the cool Mr. A, whose dry, bluesy voice, sharp, self-deprecating pen ("Ever Since the Blues" is a laugh riot), and rolling pianistics are well supported here by some of New Orleans' finest (Tony Dagradi, Steve Masakowski, Bill Huntington and John Vidacovich).

❑ VERNELL BROWN JR. A Total Eclipse (A&M 75021 5305 2)

Eighteen-year-old keyboardist plays it very, very funky on this debut—heavy, backbeat-driven, contemporary soul/jazz, most of it played on the acoustic piano. Familiar sidemen (Pattitucci, Colaiuta, Watts...) pepper the date.

RHYTHM & BLUES

BY BOB LONG

HAMMER—TOTAL ENTERTAINER: Many industry insiders said some 10 years ago that rap music would not last. Well, for all of those dis-believers, rap music has not only lasted but has *out*lasted and popularized many of the sounds of years ago. In fact, rap music has flourished so much that we are finding more and more artists we know as singers using rap inserts in their songs.

I had the pleasure of meeting a young man in mid-1988, who I felt had all of the tools to become a star in the music business. In fact, I remember telling him, "you will revolutionize rap music." I subsequently told Wayne Edwards, then vice president of A&R for Capitol Records, about this sensational talent. Wayne saw him, signed him, and the rest is musical history. The man is M.C. Hammer.

In just one year, M.C. Hammer has made an indelible mark on the music-business landscape. One of the select individuals who is able to transcend the limitations that frequently pigeonhole creative artists, this versatile, Oakland-born man has consistently demolished the notion that he is "just another rapper."

The description of "entertainer" is far more applicable to Hammer, whose incredible stage show consists of a troupe of close to 30 performers—dancers, singers and musicans. Thrilling audiences with a dynamic stage show clearly demonstrates his skills as an all-round performer—his dancing moves place him in a class of his own. Live performances with contemporary artists like New Edition, Guy and Bobby Brown have resulted in overwhelmingly positive industry response to this multi-faceted entertainer. In fact, I predict he will be the first rapper to perform long-term gigs in Las Vegas.

Hammer's debut album, Let's Get It Started, which is rapidly approaching double-platinum, garnered him two prestigious American Music Awards for Best Rap Artist and Best Rap Album. Nominations for the American Music Awards are taken from the charts of Cash Box magazine. The way his follow-up album, Please Hammer Don't Hurt 'Em, is selling (close to three million in three months), he is certainly putting himself in a strong position for another American Music Award nomination. It has occupied the number-one spot on Cash Box's Black album charts for six weeks, including this week. It also holds down the top spot on the Cash Box pop album charts for the second week in a row.

Hammer's first single, "Help the Children," was important for reasons beyond the song's grace and social awareness. He backs up his conscious-raising message with his own fund-raising promise that all proceeds from the song will go to a foundation he established to provide educational and motivational assistance to needy children.

Aside from the tracks on Please Hammer Don't Hurt Em that emphasize Hammer's commitment to using rap as a vehicle to convey important messages to youthful audiences, he provides some scintillating stuff for folks with happy feet. There's a reworking of the Jackson 5's 1974 classic "Dancin' Machine," and a new version of "On Your Face," originally recorded by Earth, Wind & Fire, the legendary group who enlisted Hammer's talents for their own Heritage album. For the lovers, Hammer puts his magic touch on a remake of the Chi-Lites' 1971 hit, "Have You Seen Her." With the track "Pray," Hammer reiterates a commitment he made early on in his career that each of his albums would contain a gospel-oriented number.

His current single, "U Can't Touch This," set to the track of the Rick James hit "Super Freak," is climbing the charts (top-10) rapidly. It is difficult to tune to a station and not hear this smash. "U Can't Touch This" is on the lips of all age groups and is probably the most-used phrase of the day.

M.C. Hammer, the James Brown of rap music, who has certainly revolutionized the genre, will kick off a 58-city tour on June 20 in Louisville, Kentucky. The tour will culminate in his hometown of Oakland, California on September 15, 1990. If your emotional needs for a completely entertaining show have not been fulfilled lately, then you must see the show of M.C. Hammer.

❑ SOUL II SOUL: VOL II—1990—A New Decade (Virgin 1-91367)

Perhaps it's that Soul II Soul have become redundant in a world they helped create. With Soul II Soul remixes practically a standard now—and clones all the rage—what was once unique and refreshing has quickly become a little stale, a little stagnant. But that's not even the whole story here. This new effort simply leans a little too heavily toward the bland. At times, it's truly yuppie background music. They're still on the positive tip, lyrically ("Elevate your mind, free your soul"), but after the soothing and lifting grooves of "Back to Life" and "Keep on Moving" (jewels that you just didn't want to end), many of these tracks simply feel interminable. There are patches that rise to the level you'd hope for: the choruses to "People" and "Missing You," the operatic touch of the new single "A Dream's a Dream," as well as the bit from Rose Royce's "Wishing on a Star" that's tucked into the same track (the best on the album). The problem is that they simply don't build enough on what they've established, often not even living up to what they've already accomplished. Nonetheless, it's a good second effort, hardly victim of the dreaded sophomore jinx. It's just disappointing in light of the expectations raised by their debut.

THE PRIEST AND THE JAZZ-MAN: Charisma recording artist Maxi Priest has recently completed work on his album, Bona Fide. He is shown here in a London Studio with Soul II Soul frontman, Jazzie B., who produced two of the album's tracks ("Space In My Heart" and "Peace Throughout the World").

COCINANDO

BY TONY SABOURNIN

SINCE EVERYBODY IN THE MEDIA, PARTICULARLY TV, seems lately to have analyzed the José and Kitty Menéndez murder case, here, for what it's worth, is our opinion: My logic simply doesn't accept the prosecution's allegation that the victims' sons, Lyle and Eric, were behind it. Let's backtrack a bit.

I indirectly owe my initiation into the record industry to the late Mr. Menéndez, thanks to my involvement with RCA International, Menéndez's creation, in 1983. Everything said about his ruthless and visionary working habits accurately matches my hearsay of him. Menéndez, with all respect to his former boss (and current CBS head) Robert (Bob) Summer, was the real leadership dynamo of 1133 Avenue of the Americas' 9th Floor, better known as Mount Olympus to us minions.

He could thoroughly anticipate a presentation 10 seconds after its initiation. He believed in five cute Puerto Rican teenagers, against most of our staff's tropical, rock and funk inclinations. Imagine our chagrin at the subsequent diet of crow when Menudo—predecessors to Maurice Starr's current favorite children, the now-ubiquitous New Kids on the Block—exploded worldwide.

He hardly seemed like a guy who, as NBC-TV's Exposé's May 20 edition claimed, would spend four hours on a tennis court pushing his children toward athletic perfection. José Menéndez was known to keep workaholic hours, his limo at the ready to depart at a second's notice, a behavior most likely continued during his Carolco tenure. More to the point, years later one of his fellow Mount Olympians told me that Menéndez once confessed to him that his non-business weekend travels were incurred to assist Cuba's freedom-fighting efforts—a notion contradictory to Exposé's allegations of his marital infidelities—as he was still sentimentally attached to the memories and possessions left behind by Menéndez' parents.

Even if the Beverly Hills D.A.'s office—under the unusual pressure of having to find culpable entities for the gruesome murder of one of the community's most prominent members—angles to prove that the Menéndez boys were in desperate need of the cash to be generated by the death insurance policies, it'll still have a tough time providing a motive for Mrs. Menéndez' assassination, since, according to her media portrayal, she served as the boys' consoling shoulder.

If Eric and Lyle are eventually acquitted of these charges, the prosecution's zeal probably will have soiled the business and social futures of two young lives, as well as their economic welfare, seriously eroded by the defense attorney's fees. Then, let us hope the prosecutors—and the media—invests enough efforts to clarify their names with the same vigor employed in smudging them.

If they are truly guilty, they deserve the full severity of the law, and more.

MEMORY LANE TIME: Remember Los Copacabana, they of the mellifluous voices, 10-year stay at the Los Angeles Beverly Wilshire, and hit version of Los Hermanos Rigual's "Cuando Calienta el Sol"? Well, they are back in La-La Land, after a long and successful tour of Europe and Japan, looking to land a label deal. My educated aural sense tells me their voices are unique in combination and timbre—a tremendous improvement over young and current desafinados icons—and that with the right amount of belief, they'd be a smashing hit for some insightful label. The group's legal advisor is Robert Gordon, his telephone number is (213) 277-7171, and they have one demo with some original songs as well as one for booking purposes.

SALPICOS Y MORDISCOS: Yo! *Casa*boys, bilingual rappers Latin Empire, have put out a dynamite single called "Asi es la Vida." The group currently seeks distribution in Puerto Rico, California and Miami, thus far the areas most receptive to this growing phenomenon. An indubitable show of strength for an artist is his/her ability to sustain the sales of several products over a prolonged period of time. That's the situation with José Luis Rodríguez, whose Tengo Derecho a Ser Feliz and Con El Mariachi Vargas de Teclalitlan albums on Mercury Latino, as well as his greatest hits compilation released by CBS Discos (with mucho TV support) are, according to chart research, selling consistently. Ditto for Ana Gabriel's Tierra de Nadie and Quien Como Tú and Eddie Santiago's Invasión de la Privacidad.

Juan Luis Guerra y Grupo 4-40 is another case in itself, as the overwhelming sales of Ojalá que Llueva Café, an album soon to celebrate the first anniversary of its release, has created an across-the-board sales reaction—from all their catalogue items to their 12" release of "La Bilirrubina"—according to sources inside Distribuidora Nacional.

Telephone lines are still smoldering from Gumersindo Miranda's incendiary comments on Eddie Santiago and Capitol/EMI-Latin. The best column reaction came from a caller who, under the promise of anonymity, said about the H. de P. remark "it's like the pot calling the kettle morocho"... Ssssh, sssh! Did you hear that silent thud? That was WEA-Latina dropping Puerto Rican vocalist Wilkins from its roster. The main reason? Would you believe lambada over-infatuation?

Following the trend of fusing discographic and booking management resources, Karen Records, widely regarded as the top merengue indie, opened a management office, Karen Presenta at 1650 Broadway, Suite 606; telephone number, (212) 265-3035. Its VP/manager, Leo Andújar—another RMMU graduate and almost as responsible as Chery Jiménez himself for the current success of the New York Band—specified that the new entity "is willing to represent even other artists not affiliated with Karen." This generates two immediate thoughts: 1.) If a Dominican icon like Karen's Bienvenido Rodríguez is expanding in New York, then it's true that Dominicana's pineapple is getting very, very agria; 2.) If I were in the merengue record production and booking business in La Gran Manzana, I'd be damn concerned when a guy like Rodriguez moves into my neighborhood, as his highly-tuned A&R ears make him the genre's executive of the '80s, hands down.

LONG ON GOSPEL

BY BOB LONG

SING! CHICAGO SING!—CHICAGO'S 6TH ANNUAL GOSPEL FESTIVAL: Mayor Richard M. Daley and the city of Chicago are proud to present the 6th annual Chicago Gospel Festival, entitled Sing! Chicago Sing!, a two-day soul-stirring extravaganza (June 2 & 3) showcasing a host of local and national talent from the gospel music arena. Additionally, a series of pre-festival activities are being planned for select sites throughout the city. This special event is being held in conjunction with the celebration of Black music during the month of June.

A special salute to two of Chicago's own gospel greats—Pop Staples and the Barrett Sisters—will take place during the power-packed inspirational weekend in downtown Chicago's Grant Park, at the Petrillo Music Shell.

"Chicago is the undisputed home of gospel music, and the Chicago Gospel Festival is the largest free festival of its kind in the world. Over 100,000 people are expected to come out to hear the celestial sounds of gospel artists such as Commissioned, Mom & Pop Winans, Elizabeth DeJesus, Albertina Walker, Calvin Bridges and the Yancy Family," according to Kathy Osterman, director of special events.

Also gracing the Petrillo Music Shell will be Walt Whitman & the Soul Children of Chicago, Darius Brooks, Dr. Charles G. Hayes & the Cosmopolitan Church of Prayer Choir, Dr. Clay Evans & the Fellowship M.B. Choir, Rev. Dan Willis & the Pentecostals of Chicago, Rev. Milton Brunson & the Thompson Community Singers, the Norfleet Brothers, Ruben Burton & the Victory Travlers and the Five Blind Boys of Alabama (the latter of which, incidentally, will be performing in the upcoming drama Gospel at Colonus at the Goodman Theater beginning June 7).

The 1989 Chicago Gospel Festival drew over 85,000 enthusiastic fans to hear Grammy Award winners BeBe & CeCe Winans, Shirley Caesar and the Winans. This year the powerful voice of Vanessa Bell Armstrong will rock the stage.

United Airlines will be the official air carrier for the Chicago Gospel Festival. For special discount airfares to the festival, call 1-800-521-4041, and ask for account #0001R. The Omni-Orrington in Evanston, Illinois, is the official hotel. Other participating sponsors include Pepsi-Cola, AT&T, KM Independence Group, Discover card, Sara Lee Bakeries, Good Humor, the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA), WGCI, WBEZ, WBEE, LaGrou Distribution Systems, Inc., and Mid-Town Instrument Rentals. Special thanks is also extended to Percussion Shop.

The Chicago Gospel Festival is broadcast over public radio WBEZ 91.5 FM in Chicago. For more information, please contact the Mayor's Office of Special Events Hotline, at (312) 744-3370.

I AM RECORDS: For the past five years, I AM Records has grown to become a very strong and prominent force in the Black gospel music marketplace. As part of the A&M/Word system, 1 Am Records released ten albums and received numerous awards for its artists. 1 AM artists have been nominated for Grammy Awards and have been three-time recipients of the coveted Stellar Gospel Awards. The company has charted six albums on the top-40 gospel charts.

In 1987 and 1988, 1 AM Records, Coca-Cola USA and Luster Products promoted the country's first national gospel tour, entitled "Hooked on Gospel," to celebrate Black History Month and to benefit scholarship funds at 18 Black colleges. The "Hooked on Gospel" tour was videotaped by Black Entertainment Television (BET) via the Bobby Jones Gospel Show, and is re-run often.

In February of 1990, 1 AM Records left the A&M/Word system and entered into a new distribution arrangement with BMG Distribution. Three new albums have been released since joining the BMG family. Latest releases include Can't Love Him, by Rev. Stanley Keeble; This Is the Day, by Walt Whitman & the Soul Children of Chicago; and A Wonderful Day, by Dorothy Norwood.

1 AM Records is headed by president Jun Mhoon, who was most recently the national director of gospel music at A&M Records. Other key management personnel include Freida Curry, vice president of operations; and Shelly Thompson, director of sales.

I AM's roster includes great legends like Pop Staples, the Barrett Sisters and Jessy Dixon. 1 AM Records is a force to be reckoned with in the gospel music industry. Their accomplishments to date have been many—but this is only the beginning.

POP REVIEWS

SINGLES

❑ SEDUCTION: "Could This Be Love" (A&M 75021 8082 2)

This multi-ethnic trio, with more talent than all their similarly composed peers combined, slows down the pace a bit with a rather average love ballad, disappointing in the wake of the sleaze-and-beats feel of their three other dance/pop singles ("You're My One and Only," "It Takes Two" and "Heartbeat"). A wiser choice for a new single would have been the breathless rap of "Breakdown." (Ernest Hardy)

ALBUMS

❑ MADONNA: I'm Breathless (Sire/Warner Brothers 26209-1)

Both a typical and an atypical Madonna album (the former precisely because it marks yet another shift in style and persona; the latter because of the style and persona assumed), Breathless finds Madonna as a sexy, brassy, '40s torch singer. Though there's overlap between past incarnations and the present one (money and sex dominate two of the best tracks here), Ms. Ciccone handles the demands of the new role quite impressively. As she started doing on last year's Like a Prayer album, she often sings with a lower voice than in the past, which allows her to, not exactly belt out her songs, but more powerfully and energetically get them across. She's at her best singing "Hanky Panky" (her composition) and "More" (a Stephen Sondheim contribution). The first is a playful ode to S&M; the second a "Material Girl" on the Broadway stage (there are snippets from classic Broadway show tunes cleverly tossed in to ensure the connection is made). Also noteworthy are the pretty, what once would have been called lovely, "Something to Remember" and "What Can You Lose." The only real misfires are the campy "I'm Going Bananas" (a Carmen Miranda tribute gone haywire) and "Crybaby," both delivered in the annoying Betty Boop voice that amuses no one but Madonna. The current #1, House-inflected single, "Vogue," closes out the disc and, though it may initially seem ill-placed here, this tribute to icons and attitude is a fitting wrap to the whole undertaking. (EH)

❑ PRETENDERS: Packed! (Sire 9 26219-2)

Just so you don't get confused, let it be stressed that is a fantastic album—one of the best releases of the year. It is tough/sweet, consistent, and features one of the greatest talents in rock's enigmatic history—Chrissie Hynde. While the praises of this album are many, it nonetheless remains a disappointment for those who have waited eagerly in the four years since the last Pretenders album, Get Close. That album was confused and inconsistent, but featured some of Hynde's best work. Packed! has a more even sound, but doesn't quite match the innovation or intelligence that was the hallmark of all previous Pretenders work. Hynde is, after all, the woman who wrote "Kid," "Tattooed Love Boys," "The Wait," "English Roses," "Talk of the Town," "Back on the Chain Gang" and "2000 Miles." Just her vocals alone on a James Bond theme song a few years ago could evoke tears.

This is not to say, however, that Hynde has abandoned all that is familiar. The production on Packed! is much more lush and adult/contemporary pop-sounding than her earlier recordings, but it also boasts a bevy of classic Pretenders' riffs and moods. Both "No Guarantees" and "Hold a Candle to This" have fast-driving beats that crunch along with the best from Pretenders II. "Downtown" recaptures the energy of "Tattoed Love Boys" and "Porcelain," while "When Will I See You" is as wistfully melancholy as Learning to Crawl's "2000 Miles." The winning "Sense of Purpose" even ends with a line from the earlier "Louie, Louie." This look backwards is a refreshing change for die-hard Pretenders fans who lament the passing of a beloved musical wildness as each successive Pretenders album refines and remolds the band's sound. Packed! is reflective without being redundant; it's competent and consistent—a strong package, but one that may not haunt the mind and soul for years to come, in the way that only Chrissie Hynde can. (Scott Harvey)

❑ SAM KINISON: Leader of the Banned (Warner Bros. 26073-4)

Critics of Sam Kinison's raunchy, irreverent humor are unlikely to be converted by Leader of the Banned. On side 1, the comedy side, Kinison takes aim at Jerry Lewis, the Beach Boys, senior citizens, the Iranian government and women who undergo breast-reduction (which he denounces as cruelty to men). Kinison aficionados will likely welcome the album with open arms. Like Richard Pryor, Andrew Dice Clay, Rudy Ray Moore, George Carlin and Eddie Murphy, Kinison shouldn't be taken literally—something his detractors seem to forget. Side 2 is the wildman's attempt at singing rock. Covers of the Rolling Stones' "Under My Thumb," AC/DC's "Highway to Hell," Mountain's "Mississippi Queen" and Cheap Trick's "Gonna Raise Hell," which were produced by Richie Zito (Heart, Berlin, Martha Davis) and/or Phil Kaffel, indicate that he's no Robert Plant. But then, he never claimed to be. Leader of the Banned should be taken for what it is—entertainment, pure and simple. Liking or disliking it is up to the individual; attempts to supress it on the part of either feminists or fundamentalists is a step toward fascism. (Alex Henderson)

❑ X CLAN: To the East Blackwards (4th & BWAY 444 019-1)

Furthering the Afrocentric point of view with the aid of classic funk grooves and the same intelligence and provocativeness as Public Enemy (minus the confrontational stance), X Clan manages to be part of the pro-African, pro-knowledge contingent without the clone effect. With a repetition of catch-phrases and slogans ("Vanglorious!") scattered throughout the disc as a unifying glue, the Clan establish trademarks of its own while banking off samples from the Tom Tom Club and George Clinton. (EH)

❑ WILSON PHILLIPS: Wilson Phillips (SBK CDP-93745)

This all-star baby band delivers with the style and grace one associates with good breeding. While many progeny bands are unable to rise up to the name that begat their fame a generation before, Wilson Phillips' entry into the music business does not embarass their parents' legacies. Their sound is in no way redundant to the Beach Boys or the Mamas and Papas. Instead, these three women have created a contemporary, slick sound that allows them to stand apart from the pioneering efforts of Brian Wilson and Michelle Phillips. Its appeal rests in the group's own harmonious vocals, producer Glen Ballard's chirpy arrangements, and the extremely high quality of the production work. The entire album is remarkably consistent, and if one enjoys the top-three single "Hold On," then the album is a must-buy. The mamas and papas of Wilson Phillips must be bursting with pride over their daughters' deserved success. (SH)

❑ LAVA HAY: Lava Hay (PolyGram 843192-2)

As slick and fine as are Wilson Phillips, they can learn a lot from Lava Hay. Lava Hay are a couple of nice Canadian women who began harmonizing in 1986. Their self-titled debut is a flawless celebration of expression that marries poignant lyrics and vocals to wonderfully understated but complex arrangements featuring cellos, violins, banjos, flutes and their own acoustic guitars. The subdued accompaniment allows Lava Hay's wondrous, natural harmonies to shine through, without the aid of overdubbing. Their clear and direct sound is folk-grounded, but songs like "Baby" and "Wild Eyes" are good ol' country rockers. "My Friend" and "Weeping Willow" both realize a country flair that is so simple and genuine, one laments that country music itself seldom produces such works. Thankfully, Lava Hay's work escapes the pretense that defines much modern folk. They are not at all like the arty, abstract Suzanne Vega, nor are they flat and dull like the rash of '70s troubadours that may have forever killed popular folk music. Instead, Lava Hay's music kicks and moves through the meadow on an etherial cloud of pure melody. (SH)

❑ ALEX BUGNON: Head Over Heels (Orpheus Dr-75615)

Head Over Heels is a definite improvement over pop/jazz artist Alex Bugnon's last album, which suffered from overproduction and a shortage of improvisation. Although the same problems are evident on some cuts (such as an unimaginative cover of Luther Vandross' "Any Love"), most of Head Over Heels benefits from Bugnon's tendancy to stretch out more on both synthesizers and the acoustic piano. While it isn't as challenging as the brilliant works of McCoy Tyner, Chick Corea or Ahmad Jamal, Head Over Heels' brighter moments put Bugnon in a class with Rodney Franklin and Bobby Lyle. Again, a definite improvement. (AH)

The Vinyl/CD Controversy

BY KIMMY WIX

PRIOR TO EDISON'S PHONOGRAPH INVENTION IN 1877, the sound of music could only be heard by actually witnessing a live performance. As a result of such increasing technology, we've witnessed the "turn" of music for over a century. For approximately fifty years we relied on the turning of the original phonograph cylinder. The roaring '20s introduced the 78 rpm shellac record, which remained quite commercial through the rockin' '50s era. Around the year 1948, we were then exposed to the vinyl 45—smaller in size, lighter in weight, much more durable and easy to store. Vinyl was often referred to as perhaps the most ingenious form of music possible. To radio, vinyl became the heart of the matter, and to many radio stations, even today, it still is.

However, the early 1980s saw a need to once again turn the tables of music technology, with the introduction of the currently prevailing format—the compact disc. A compact disc (CD) is a 5-inch disc made of high-impact plastic, a polycarbonate, coated with a clear surface. The interior disc contains a three-mile long spiral of digital information (which can be either music or graphics) and is encased in a coating of reflective material that makes the information (stored in a series of microscopic pits) available to the CD player's servo/mechanical unit, audio processor and central processing unit. The CD player turns the pits of information back into music.

Riding on the same wave as the CD format is an obviously superior sound quality. Many say the overall convenience of the disc is much greater. But what are some of the disadvantages of this new music source? How does it affect today's radio, other than flaunting a better sound for the listener and requiring stations to literally shell out more bucks for CD players, in addition to buying the actual CDs—that's if they're not being serviced by the record companies? In most cases, only those radio stations that report to trade magazines are actually serviced, which means they're off the hook when it comes to paying for what they're playing.

Recently, the majority of major record companies have begun releasing CD singles to radio. They continue to release the singles on vinyl, but how long will this last? The vinyl album is already nearing extinction. Some companies have already stated that eventually they will only release their product on CD. So where does this leave those stations that have not yet equipped their facilities with a CD system? For some, the reason is a financial one—the budget just can't cut it. For others it's just a matter of not really believing that the CD (and all its glory) will last. That might sound a bit silly, but it is also quite possible. Remember when "Quadraphonic" was going to be the next best thing to being there? Needless to say, it's not there anymore.

It's evident that the controversy surrounding current single service from major record labels and the soon-to-come "CD takeover" is creating quite a few questions: What's in the future for vinyl? Is it dying or is the CD still in its testing stage? Are the major record labels overlooking the smaller-market stations who can't go the CD route just yet? What if today is the last day for releasing vinyl? Will some stations simply have to play the game or lose out? Without radio playing the product, the song won't be heard, which means the product won't be sold, which totally destroys the whole network. Perhaps those stations that do have the CD set-up will be sufficient.

Here are some of the responses we got from radio stations across the country during a recent survey about the situation:

Barbara Justice, WNRG, Grundy, Virginia:

"Right now we're playing a mixture of 45 vinyl singles and CDs. I'd still like to see the vinyl continue. They're a lot easier to keep up with than the CDs. They're easier to play and to maintain, too. Because if you get any fingerprints on the CDs whatsoever, it's going to either skip or hurt the CD. Some people might not think about that, but then they don't have to play them every day."

Jerry Raby, WYTM, Fayetteville, Tennessee:

"I'm afraid that it's probably gonna die out. I think that's probably gonna make it hard on some small radio stations that are around. But it looks like that's gonna be the thing of the future...the CD."

Lisa Puzo, KZLA, Burbank, California:

"I wouldn't really know about the future but I'll tell ya...it's so easy to have vinyl around. I can go through them, especially in music meetings and things like that. I don't have to hunt through a whole bunch of CDs just to try and find the one single that I'm looking for. That's what I love about the convenience of a 7-inch vinyl. The record companies don't mark the sides of the CD cases, so you have to go through a big stack just to find the right CD."

Scott Huber, KOLY, Mobridge, South Dakota:

"The CD sounds a lot better, but I don't really think the vinyl will die. There are too many of the smaller-time radio stations like ourselves. We've only had the CD player since right before Christmas. We've only got one. We're not set up for two or three. It's tough to go to the CDs. I suppose in time they'll probably take over, but not in the near future."

Skip Ramsey, WLSA, Louisa, Virginia:

"Oh yeah, we're great fans of the vinyl. We've been bucking the tide with this CD thing. We are of course CD-capable. We had to go that way about a year ago, but we still love playing our vinyl. The vinyl is just a lot easier for us. We've got guys who have been doing this forever. Yeah, we'll always play vinyl...recurrents and oldies."

Larry Pareigis, WSM, Nashville, Tennessee:

"The future of vinyl...that's an intriguing question. My AM programmer says 'What future?' I think that it will exist almost as a curiosity in specialty shops and things of that nature. I think that we're now moving on to a different time. It's like video tapes started with Beta and then moved on to VHS. That's basically what we're seeing now. We're seeing a migration of format from vinyl to compact disc. Then eventually, if DAT [digital audio tape] ever becomes a factor, DAT could eventually supplant the CD. So it's just another new technology, but it's making us sound better, and for that I am eternally grateful. I understand the smaller-market stations' position as far as being strapped with budgets and the like, but we've moved into a brand-new era as far as sound technology and what is expected of radio stations by their listenership. So if it costs a little bit of money to make you sound better or to achieve a certain status and ratings in your marketplace for storage space or whatever else, that's a small price to play."

Scott Robbins, WRKZ, Hershey, Pennsylvania:

"To be honest, at first I didn't think the CD made that much of a difference. But they do make a difference. I sometimes don't know if the listener really notices. People won't tell you when it's good. They only tell you when it's bad. But yeah...we made the move pretty quickly. We didn't feel forced to do it. We wanted to do it."

Aaron Sims, KRLW, Walnut Ridge, Arizona:

"Well, with a station like us, $150 isn't cheap, even for a simple CD player. We're small and in the middle of nowhere. It's a pain for us to get one, but once we get it, it'll be something we'll use, and have to [use]."

Stan White, WPNC, Plymouth, North Carolina:

"I'll tell ya what...we waited. If you'll remember back in the '60s when Quadraphonic Stereo came out...I thought the CD would come in and go out the same way. It still may. But looking at the retail end...you remember when the kids used to go and get three or four albums for three, four, five or six dollars apiece. Now we're looking at CDs costing anywhere from $14 to $20 dollars apiece. Tell me, who can go out and buy three CDs? Look at artists like Ricky Van Shelton—he just had his third gold album in a row. If he had to have depended on CDs alone, man, do you think he could have done that?"

Stan Friend, KZNN, Rolla, Missouri:

"I can understand and see why they're eliminating album vinyl. But my recommendation...I've told all the people at the major labels not to eliminate the 45. Keep that going all the time, regardless of the CDs or not. If I was a record label and I had to make the choice of either a 45 or a CD single, I'd choose the vinyl. Simply because of the fact that I don't know of any radio station that can't play a 45. I know there are many stations, for whatever reason, that can't play a CD."

Dennis Jackson, WVAR, Richwood, West Virginia:

"Oh, I hope the labels don't stop sending the 45s, too. Oh my gosh, that could really hurt the record companies. I think that it's a lot of the small-town buyers who are supporting all these acts—actually buying the product itself. It's rural areas that count, too."

Jerry Raby, WYTM, Fayetteville, Tennessee:

"Rather than drag it out and continue all the questions and optimism, I'd like to see it be cut and dried one way or the other. Let's just make a decision about it and go with it. Either this is the way it's going to be or they're definitely going to continue to send both [CD and vinyl]. I know from stations that I used to work for, they're not equipped basically to go that route. [They] don't have the funds to do it and they don't know if they should go out there and borrow money, or what to do. So they're kinda sittin' in limbo trying to wait and see what the record companies are gonna do. I just don't think that's fair to the radio stations. If they knew they had to do it eventually, I think most of them would go ahead and make that change. I'd just like to hear them say 'O.k., industry—June 1 will be the last day we'll ship a piece of vinyl out,' or 'We'll definitely be sending both from now on.' It's kind of a question-and-answer game now. Everybody has questions, but nobody has answers."

Most of these questions are questions that cannot be answered overnight. In follow-up stories we will talk with major record-label executives about their plans for vinyl/CD distribution to radio stations, and with jukebox operators about how any changes in service may affect them. O

COUNTRY MUSIC

Garth Brooks

NEWCOMER GARTH BROOKS just returned from the West Coast, where he wowed audiences and critics alike. A highlight of that tour, says Brooks, was his chance to open for one of his heroes, singer Chris LeDoux. Fans may remember Brooks singing about listening to "a worn-out tape of Chris LeDoux..." in his first single, "Much Too Young (To Feel This Damn Old)." The pair of singers sold out their performance at the Cocky Bull in Victorville, California. Referring to the rodeo system of rating performance on a scale of 1-100, LeDoux took the stage after Brooks and asked the audience, "How do you follow a 90?"

UNUSUAL PERFORMANCE: Many country artists wear cowboy hats on stage, but Billy Joe Royal may well be the first to perform in a coonskin cap. During a recent performance in Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, home of legendary frontiersman Davy Crockett, the singer was presented with an honorary citizenship and a coonskin cap by mayor Ivan Johnston. The artist kept the cap on while finishing the evening's performance. The Atlantic Records artist has plenty to flip his cap over these days, drawing numerous sell-out crowds during his current concert tour, while his just-released "Searchin' for Some Kind of Clue" continues to climb the national charts. His fourth Atlantic LP, Out of the Shadows, is scheduled for release this month.

TIDBITS

Dolly Parton

LEARNING THROUGH TOILET-PAPER THREATS: Dolly Parton was the keynote speaker at a National Dropout Prevention Conference in Nashville recently. This is a topic of great concern to her. She is committed specifically to helping reduce the high school dropout rates in Sevier County, Tennessee, where she grew up. In fact, she has created the Dollywood Foundation for that purpose. It is funded primarily through her concerts at Dollywood. Since its inception in 1988, more than $300,000 has been raised for everything from scholarships to clothing for needy children. Parton told educators that if Tennessee governor Ned McWherter didn't fulfill his promise to improve education, "We'll roll his yard in toilet paper or somethin'."

CONGRATULATIONS to MCA/Nashville's Sarah Brosmer on the birth of her daughter, Katie Whitley; and to journalist Debra Evans Price on the birth of her son, Gary Lee Douglas III.

THIS COULD BE AN advertisement for a great toothpaste commerical. However, it is the inimitable Carol Channing visiting Louise Mandrell in her backstage dressing room after Mandrell's performance in Las Vegas at the Desert Inn. Channing complimented Mandrell on her "warm and friendly performance and tremendous talent" and also remarked "I am going to see you entertain again soon."

SINGLE RELEASES

OUT OF THE BOX

❑ DAN SEALS: "Good Times" (Capitol 79120)

Following the same direction as "Love on Arrival," Seals holds onto a good-time-music delivery. Adding spice to this upbeat cruising tune produced by Kyle Lehning and penned by S. Cooke, is the radiance of superb back-up harmony and a free-spirited saxophone.

COUNTRY FEATURE PICKS

❑ LEE ROY PARNELL: "Oughta Be a Law" (Arista AS-2028)

Kicking out his second release with a firey charm is country newcomer Lee Roy Parnell. "Oughta Be a Law," produced by Barry Beckett, gives us grinding energy along with Parnell's soulful punch and driving vocals—snatching us up in a flash.

❑ MARY-CHAPIN CARPENTER: "Something of a Dreamer" (Columbia 38 73361)

Keep 'em coming, girl—we're loving every minute of it! These latest three minutes from Carpenter are no exception. Produced by John Jennings and Carpenter, "Something of a Dreamer" presents a fresh twist in melody, an acoustic perfection and crisp Carpenter vocals that need no description, except "marvelous."

❑ DIANNE DAVIS: "I've Lost You to Her" (16th Avenue 70441)

With her follow-up to "Baby Don't Go," Davis comes back with an authentic country treasure. Brilliantly produced by Norro Wilson and Mike Wood, "I've Lost You to Her" flaunts a vocal ability with unlimited boundaries and a tune that simply flashes two words—radio hit. Lyrics and commanding harmony also credited to Davis obviously prove something—this newcomer is set to shine.

❑ EMMYLOU HARRIS WITH WILLIE NELSON: "Gulf Coast Highway" (Reprise 7-19870)

Definitely sparking a rare treat is this tender-felt ballad delivered by two masters. Along with a gentle acoustic magic and a drifting fiddle are tactful lyrics that sink deep in the heart. "Gulf Coast Highway," written by Nanci Griffith, Danny Flowers and James Hooker, should instantly extend a warm and inviting welcome to radio playlists.

❑ MCBRIDE & THE RIDE: "Every Step of the Way" (MCA CD45-70938)

ALBUM RELEASES

❑ DOUG STONE: Doug Stone (Epic ET45303)

This newcomer has hit the nail on the head when it comes to solid, traditional country. His emotional delivery on heart-tugging ballads like the outstanding "I'd Be Better Off (In a Pine Box)" and "It's a Good Thing I Don't Love You Anymore," plus his honky-tonk hits "Turn This Thing Around" and "Crying on Your Shoulder Again," are sure to keep Stone on the upswing, chart-wise. Doug Johnson's expert production, along with some top-notch material, are sure to make this LP only the first of many, many successful projects for Doug Stone.

❑ JERRY LANSDOWNE: Travel Light (Step One SOR-0055)

This fellow has star potential and posesses strong, sultry vocals that make a ballad come to life. This LP is filled with songs that seem to be made for Lansdowne's voice—songs like the title cut, "With Each Step I Take" and his hit single "Lessons of Love." "Your Lovin' Ways" spotlights his blues influence, and "Paradise Knife and Gun Club" gives us an excellent idea of what Lansdowne is capable of doing with an up-beat, rockin' tune. Stellar production by Ray Pennington, along with Lansdowne's high energy and talent, are sure to take this fresh new voice far.

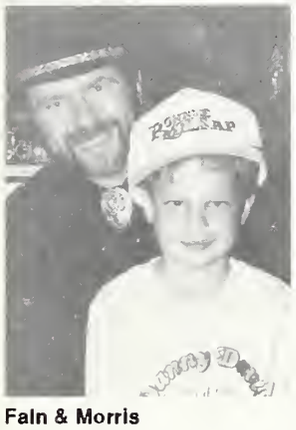
J.D.'s Corner

COUNTRY DJ GETS INVOLVED... When Jeff Fain, music director at country radio WYNC in Yanceyville, North Carolina, received a call from a woman asking a favor, he figured he was about to be asked to play a request or mention a birthday or anniversary. This request was for a birthday, but a very special birthday for a very special boy.



Fain & Morris

Five-year-old Matthew Morris was born with several birth defects and has already been in the hospital five times in his young life. He would soon be celebrating his sixth birthday, but would be doing so a week after yet another surgery at the University of Virginia Hospital. This relative that called Fain requested that maybe some country music artists could wish Matthew a happy birthday, since Matthew and his parents were such big country music fans.

Fain got to work, and what a surprise followed for Matthew on his birthday. Fain arrived at the hospital with two boxes of gifts from the stars who had heard the plea and responded in a generous fashion. Matthew received taped greetings from the stars, which Fain had incorporated into a 90-minute special "radio" program just for Matthew.

Some of the country artists who came through for young Matthew were Loretta Lynn, Nancy and George Jones, Billy Joe Royal, the Oak Ridge Boys, Johnny Cash, Ronnie Milsap, Mel Tillis, Faron Young, Ray Price, Tammy Wynette, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, the Marcy Brothers, Lee Greenwood, Canyon, John Conlee, Charlie Pride, Louise Mandrell, Joe Barnhill, Daniele Alexander, Big Al Downing, Robin Lee, Kim Tsoy, Summer Cassidy, Touch of Country, Vettz, Linda Carol Forrest, Andi & and Browns and Rebecca Holden, former TV star turned country music singer.

"They were all fantastic," Fain exclaimed. "I have always felt like country music people were one big family, and everyone involved helped substantiate this by coming through with autographed photos, hats, T-shirts, records, tapes, fan club memberships and of course, the verbal greetings."

Involvement is nothing new to Fain. Several years ago, while at another station, Fain started "The Great River Race" in Rockingham County in North Carolina to get the community involved in saving the Dan and Mayo Rivers from being damned by the Army Corp of Engineers. It was a successful effort, resulting in saving the Dan River, one of the country's oldest rivers. Says Fain, "I believe that radio should do something besides entertain. Community and personal involvement is something we should all do in as big or as little a way as possible."

Thumbs up to Jeff Fain.

TELEPRODUCTIONS RECORDS ARTISTS Howie Damron and Hermalee joined Curb Records' Becky Hobbs recently for a benefit staged by the Nashville-based Entertainers Against Hunger in Ashland, Kentucky. The show marked the start of both artists' 1990 tour schedules, which will take the two to Canada later this year for a series of dates north of the border. Damron's current single, "Your Love," and Hermalee's latest release, "There's the Door," are both gaining significant radio exposure all across the country. Entertainers Against Hunger raises funds through the entertainment industry and distributes the money to such anti-hunger organizations as Second Harvest Food Bank, USA for Africa and former President Jimmy Carter's Global 2000. A portion of the proceeds from the Ashland concert will also be distributed to anti-hunger groups in that area.

Bubba Bartosh

BGM RECORDS ARTIST Bubba Bartosh, who holds a degree in electronics, has been putting his education to good use since completing work on his debut album. The singer has busied himself by building his own home recording studio, which he plans to use for cutting demos of his own material. His new single, "Who's He to You?," is part of a five-selection CD package that will be released within the next few weeks.

JODY MILLER just finished recording some great duets with her lovely daughter, Robin Brooks. Miller has not recorded in the last few years, but the bug bit her again when Brooks asked her to record some duets, so they contacted Glenn Keener, who produced the first records for Reba McEntire and Jo-El Sonnier. Shown here in the studio going over a lyric change are (l to r): Glenn Keener, Jody Miller and Robin Brooks.

INDIE FEATURE PICK

❑ FREDDIE WATERS: "Are We Still in Love or Aren't We"

(Cannon CA1119)

Spicy vocals with a slight rock and roll edge turns this punching ballad into commanding radio material. Penned by J. Foster, J. Morris and J.B. Detterline, Jr., "Are We Still in Love or Aren't We" compares to the contemporary style and jazzy delivery of Billy Joe Royal. Nevertheless, Waters adds his own personal touch, which results in pure musical pleasure.

Gospel...Hot off the Press...

SPARROW ANTICIPATES GROWTH WITH NEW MARKETING, CREATIVE SERVICES ALIGNMENT: The Sparrow Corporation has announced three new positions as part of its controlled-growth strategy for the '90s. "Artist development and marketing services have been the key to the success of our artists and their products," states Bill Hearn, senior vice president, marketing. "These new appointments are being filled by seasoned Sparrow employees, all familiar with our artists and their ministries," he says. "Each will be responsible for both broader duties and added staff reporting to them." Barbara Hearn was promoted to director, marketing and creative services, adding marketing duties to her former position. Reporting to her, Jenny Lockwald becomes manager, national promotion, extending her prior position in radio promotion. Lucy Diaz, who first joined Sparrow in its children's product marketing department, will now have responsibility for all sales communication and coordination of Sparrow product as manager, product sales development, reporting directly to the senior vice president of marketing. Sparrow Records and its marketing team received the Gospel Music Association's Impact Award this year in recognition of its innovative and effective launching of various new artists.

REUNION SIGNS AUSSIE ARTIST: Reunion Records recently signed Australian roots guitarist and pop stylist Steve Grace to a distribution agreement and is releasing his second album, Children of the Western World, to the United States in early June. The project is produced by Beeb Birtles, a former member of the Little River Band, and lyrically addresses some important questions about faith within the context of hope that the world can be changed.

ALBUM REVIEW

❑ GAITHER VOCAL BAND: A Few Good Men (Star Song SSC-8148)

Perhaps the most impressive project we've reviewed this year would be this commanding treasure. The name on the label needs no introduction, but this particular package deserves one. There's a different emotion, a different aim and a different sound within each and every cut of A Few Good Men, excellently produced and arranged by Lari Goss. Incorporated with a campaign to bring back honor and integrity to the men of our communities and churches, A Few Good Men also brings back the Gaither magic we've befriended for years. Whether it be the spicey snap of "There Is a Mountain" and "Stand Tall," "Unbelievable Friend" (which is set to a doo-wop flavor), "New Wine" (which would fit best in the Southern gospel bracket), or the title cut, we're simply faced with music, production and vocals at their absolute best. The band's individual vocal results and harmony are capable of creating a tingle to the skin. Of course, this package is glazed with plush instrumentation, including some cuts that resemble the sound of Broadway or even festive New Orleans. A Few Good Men also presents tunes such as "Keep Believing," "Beyond the Open Door," "Sacrifice of Praise" and "These Are They," all of which bring new meaning and a sense of sincerity to inspirational ballads. Moments after being pronounced man and wife, Christian artist Kim Boyce and singer Gary Koreiba were pictured walking down the aisle during the recessional at the First Church of the Nazarene in Winter Haven, Florida. Mr. & Mrs. Koreiba were married on Saturday, May 5, 1990. Having recently returned from a New England honeymoon, Kim and Gary are gearing up to make their partnership a musical one. Kim says she is looking foward to Gary's increased involvement with her ministry: "Gary and I will be recording a duet on my next record, and we're hoping that he may be able to perform some of his own songs during our concerts."

WOMEN IN COINBIZ:

Bromley, Inc.'s Lauran Bromley

BY CAMILLE COMPASIO

LAURAN BROMLEY IS PRESIDENT of Bromley, Incorporated of Chicago. That in itself is a distinction. After all, how many women presidents do we have in the coin-op industry? I can't think of any others. Her father, Martin Bromley, is a very prominent figure in the industry (and you'll notice frequent references to him throughout this interview). Lauran, however, is actually a third generation coinbiz lady. Her grandfather, Irving Bromberg, had a route that dispensed candy via a pre-electromechanical wall-mount unit. During the early days of his career he handled the Bally line in California, which Lauran's father took out to Honolulu and Japan. This move led to his co-founding of a company to "service games," and the ultimate start-up of Sega (SErvice GAmes).

When you have a celebrity dad, does it pave the way for a fast, unencumbered ascent to the top? For some, maybe, but not for Lauran Bromley. "I always wanted to go into my dad's industry but didn't have the courage to ask," she admitted. When she finally bit the bullet and let her feelings be known, he was delighted. Martin Bromley owned 50 percent of Stern Electronics at the time and explained to his daughter that her first test would be an interview with Gary Stern. This was a wise decision, since Gary Stern applied the same training that he had received from his father, the late coinbiz patriarch Sam Stern. Lauran Bromley's training program at Stern began in February of 1981, in the stock room. From there she went into purchasing for Seeburg, quality control and PCB testing, picking up as much knowledge as she could along the way. The production line came next, then, finally, her long-awaited elevation to director of advertising and promotion, where she was in charge of the trade and distributor shows, the brochures and other related activities. She remained with Stern for about five more years, which was long after her father was bought out.

Following the demise of Stern Electronics, Bromley became a silent partner in "a company that was coming out with an itsy, bitsy, teenie, tiny portable video poker game." About eight months later, as Bromley confided, "we realized that you couldn't see the LCD in a dark bar!" At this point, she left the industry, "only to come crawling back in 1986."

Once again, Gary Stern comes into focus. He was working out of a small warehouse, located not too far from where Bromley lived, for a company called Data East Pinball. This provided a perfect opportunity for her to get back to doing what she loved most. "I became known as the Volunteer Department at Data East Pinball," she told us. "I worked for them gratis until they moved into their current facilities in Melrose Park, Illinois, at which time the Volunteer Department decided it didn't want to drive that far!" But this wasn't the end of the relationship. She did some consulting work for Data East Pinball in October of 1987, wound up working full-time and stayed on as a purchasing agent until June of 1989.

Tell us a little about the formation of Bromley, Incorporated and your company's popular Little Pro redemption piece, we asked? "After I left Data East Pinball in June of 1989, I was intent on starting my own company in this industry," she responded. "I felt then as I do now that there is a darn good market out there for redemption equipment. The secret is to be a small company, where a 100- to 500-piece run spells profit, and not disaster.

"Bromley, Incorporated is set up with this in mind," she continued. "We do not have a factory at this time. My games are built via contract manufacturing. Over the past 11 months I've worked on setting up a team of wonderful individuals who contribute to all of our projects. My sound man, my hardware and software people are top of the line, and my artist is a 'number-one in the industry' person."

Bromley confided that the decision to use the family name for her business was a tough one, in that "my father is so well known in the industry, I didn't want to tarnish the name in the event anything should go wrong." Needless to say, since the introduction of Little Pro, everything has gone right, so the decision has been justified.

The story behind Little Pro is rather interesting. It seems Bromley's father bought two very old games, at auction, in England and sent them to her, wondering if they might have potential in today's marketplace. But, I'll let her tell you the rest. "I brought in an artist and asked him to take this old Harry Williams piece, update it, and add some dimension and fun to it," she said. "The golfer on the game is a replica of the 1937 Little Pro Golfer and that is the only similarity to the 1937 version.

"We tested Little Pro for over three months at different locations," she continued, adding that "we have made numerous changes due to this testing and it seems obvious that our caution was well spent. Bromley, Incorporated has another redemption piece ready for testing and a video game that is well in the works. But we're not stopping here. I also have a drawer full of other ideas, but due to tremendous R&D, I'm keeping my pace at three in the cube."

Her advice to anyone entering this end of the business is to be prepared to allow about six months to get a game going and another two months for production. "I've found it to be a long haul, at no pay. But the response our game received at ACME '90 made it all worthwhile. My reward is that Bromley, Incorporated is now off the ground and on its way to being a solid company dedicated to redemption and video games that will satisfy market demands."

Now let's talk about two other very important members of the team—Frank and Joe Bundra—otherwise known as "part of my right hand," according to Bromley. Admittedly, she is not sales-oriented, per se. "I know enough to stay out of the broad scope of sales and enter only when a decision needs to be made," she confessed. "Frank and Joe are more than just part of my team. First off, they want me to succeed not only for their own personal reasons but, most importantly, for my reasons. We all believe in non-violence and we have some fine product that reflects our belief. Frank and Joe have been with me since day three, providing advice, making suggestions, and working tirelessly on all my projects, with one goal in mind—success. I feel that Frank Bundra is way up there with the Bill Cravens in the sales talent department and I am proud that he chooses to represent Bromley, Incorporated."

How about a little scoop on what's coming up next from your company? This question met with a pause...and then..."Oh, alright. I can't go into detail on either one of them, but I shall tell you that the second redemption piece is titled Rock N Bowl. Let your readers figure it out!"

We will now turn back the pages a bit and focus on this lovely lady's very interesting background. Bromley was born and raised in Hawaii where she attended a school for girls. She spent five years in Europe, including time in Paris, Austria, West Berlin and Majorca, Spain. At the age of 17, she moved to Southern California, attended USC, where she majored in cinema, and upon graduating worked on a few films. But this was not her niche. Her underlying desire all along was to go into her "dad's industry."

Lauran Bromley is a very dedicated lady, who puts in seven days a week (and then some), working out of her home, where she tries to employ a waking hours/sleeping hours schedule in accordance with the demands of the telephone and the business. However, she does make time for playing volleyball every Wednesday, six months of the year. She enjoys water skiing and, since the Chicago weather is rather prohibitive, often vacations in the Caribbean to pursue this hobby. In the summer, she participates in as many outdoor activities as possible, including basketball, softball, touch football, et al.

Her feelings about the coin-op business are deeply rooted. "The coin-op industry is part of my blood," she said. "I love our industry. I don't know of many other industries where you can look at Dave Rosen [Sega], your competitor, in the eye and ask him how he is, and really care. In how many industries can you go up to Bill Cravens [Capcom] and ask him what he thinks about your game? The only competition lies in whose game brings more money into the cash box. In this industry we are at liberty to look at Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, observe its earnings and call Steve Kaufman [Konami] to congratulate him! This is a terrific industry!"

One last comment, please—in Lauran Bromley's words. "As long as your feature focuses on women in coinbiz, I would like to implore the gentlemen out there to do more hiring with women in mind. I feel that women are extreme minorities in this business and, as much as I love it, I must take it to task for ignoring their ability and potential, and for making me feel embarrassed by my success. So, to all of you gentlemen out there, the next time you are hiring, won't you consider a woman?"

Marvin Roth Dies

CHICAGO—Marvin Roth, board chairman of Roth Novelty in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, died suddenly on Saturday, May 12, at the age of 64. He suffered a fatal heart attack, in his car, while he was driving home after playing golf with a group of friends and business associates, including Roth Novelty's general manager Don DeRemer.

His death came as a shock to his many friends and colleagues in the industry. As DeRemer told us, it was devastating to have spoken with the man and played golf with him one moment, only to learn shortly thereafter that he was dead. This was a personal loss for a trusted employee.

Roth enjoyed an impeccable reputation in the coin-op industry. He started out as a youngster working in the distributorship that was founded by his father, Max Roth, more than 60 years ago. The company developed and prospered over the past several decades, emerging as one of the trade's most respected firms, with Marvin Roth at the helm and his son, Phillip, following in his footsteps as the third generation member of the firm.

Funeral services were held on May 14. Marvin Roth is survived by his wife Jane, daughters Debra and Patricia, and his son, Phillip, who is vice president of Roth Novelty and will continue the traditions set forth by the company.

Big Turnout at FAVA Show

CHICAGO—The Florida Amusement Vending Association (FAVA), which is one of the industry's most prominent state organizations (whose annual state convention attracts widespread representation), recently held its music and games trade show (April 19-21) in Orlando. Approximately 750 attended and the exhibit floor featured 94 booths that displayed a full assortment of equipment.

AMOA president Jack Kerner addressed the near-capacity crowd in attendance at the annual FAVA business meeting. Among the officers elected for the next term are Bill Miller of WGM Amusements, president; Ed Tolisano of Madeira Beach Fun Center, first vice president; Michael Dodson of Lawson Music Co., second vice president; and Rick Johnson of All Brands Vending Co., secretary/treasurer. Immediate past president is Anthony Falcigno of Collier County Games in Naples, Florida.

A number of special activities were hosted by participating firms. The line-up included the annual golf tournament, sponsored by Valley Recreation and Wico; and the spouse outing, which was hosted by Brady Distributing. In addition, a number of technical seminars were held and the sessions were conducted by representatives from NSM/Loewen America, Data East, Williams Electronics and Premier Technology.

Among the industry experts who conducted the various technical seminars was Williams' Tom Cahill who, as you can see, held the full attention of his audience.

Konami's Lightning Fighters

LIGHTNING FIGHTERS is the new two-player interactive, vertical monitor kit from Konami that presents a challenging combat experience involving various levels of combat portrayed in many different environs.

Players become members of the elite Lightning Fighters, whose mission it is to defend the free world from enemy infiltration and to seek out and destroy the origin of these unknown adversaries.

In addition to battling enemy aircraft, there is also air-to-ground and air-to-sea confrontations that take you through many mysterious places, including islands, snow-covered landscapes, oceans and deserts that have been taken over by the enemy forces. Players control the action with one eight-way joystick and two buttons (Shoot and Special Weapon).

To help eliminate opposing planes, tanks, sensors, submarines and other threats, power-ups in the form of vulcan bullets and spread bullets can be obtained. In addition, Trigons (automatic-fire cyber-weapons) can be picked up during the course of play to help blast away the opponents. The most powerful weapons—namely, the particle beam and dragon lasers—are also provided, but players must remember to use their best aerial maneuvers in order to avoid the barrages of enemy fire they must face.

Upon discovery of the headquarters of the unknown foe, the ultimate battle begins as you proceed to destroy the headquarters, thus eliminating the threat and restoring peace. The mission takes you through nine stages; if the mission is successfully completed, the game repeats with more difficulty.

Further information may be obtained through factory distributors or by contacting Konami, Inc. at 900 Deerfield Parkway, Buffalo Grove, IL 60089-4510.

Korean Police Expose TMNT Counterfeiters

CHICAGO—As reported in Game Magazine, the Japanese trade publication, 13 suspects were taken into custody by the Seoul Metropolitan Police in late March and charged with copyright infringement of the Konami coin-op video game Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

The March 27 edition of Chosen Daily, a local newspaper, reported that Ri Sang Pil, president of Kangsok Electronics, and Han Chang Hi, president of Pole Electronics, were arrested. Ri Sang Pil was said to have manufactured 270 counterfeit boards of TMNT in the basement of his father's house, and sold 260 of them to Han Chang Hi at the unit price of 820,000 Won, totaling 213 million Won. Han Chang Hi reportedly sold those counterfeit boards to Shin Gil Young, president of Bokum Electronics, at the unit price of 1,100,000 to 1,250,000 Won.

Konami Industry Co., Ltd., of Kobe, Japan was made aware, in early February, of the possibility that counterfeit TMNT PC boards would be manufactured in Seoul, Korea. The firm subsequently formed a survey team and dispatched it to Seoul.

Fumihiro Hishikawa, president of Konami Industry, stressed the company's policy to wipe out counterfeits by technically preventing copying. "The current exposure could exterminate the counterfeit of TMNT at an early stage," he stated, "and I think it could deal a serious blow to the copiers." He further noted that Konami will release TMNT in Japan, in the form of PC board, but a release date has yet to be determined.

Konami released TMNT in the American market in November of 1989, after which it was then introduced in Europe. While it has yet to be shipped to Japan, a sample model was exhibited at the AOU Expo '90 trade show.

Nintendo Earnings Report

CHICAGO—Nintendo Co. Ltd. of Kyoto, Japan, parent of Redmond, Washington-based Nintendo of America, Inc., announced its financial results for the 1990 fiscal period ended March 31. The company changed its fiscal year-end from August 31 to March 31, so the results represent only seven months.

Consolidated net income for fiscal 1990 was $208 million (32.9 billion yen), almost equaling fiscal 1989's net income of $217 million (34.3 billion yen). Earnings per share were $1.99 (314 yen) compared to $2.07 (327 yen) last year.

Consolidated net sales for 1990 were $1.520 billion (240.233 billion yen) compared to $1.843 bullion (291.200 billion yen) in 1989.

U.S. sales of Nintendo Entertainment System (NES) hardware continued to set records in fiscal 1990, according to Minoru Arakawa, president of Nintendo of America, Inc. Since its introduction in 1985, 21 million units have been sold.

The company's new compact video game system, Game Boy, contributed substantially to sales growth, especially in the Japanese market, Arakawa said, noting that sales during the early months of Game Boy's introduction far surpassed supply, both in Japan and the U.S. He anticipates that worldwide sales for calendar 1990 will reach nine million units.

Nintendo stock is traded publicly in Japan on the major exchanges and is available in the U.S. in ADR form on the over-the-counter market. Each ADR is equal to one-quarter of a full share in Japan. As of the close of business on May 11, the price of a full share on the Osaka exchange was 21,600 yen ($136.71).

Hoffman & Hoffman Mints New "Business Card for Keeps"

CHICAGO—Hoffman & Hoffman of Carmel, California is noted industrywide for its diverse line of custom tokens, coins and medallions that enjoy widespread acceptance not only in the arcade/amusement industry but throughout the entire business community.

The company recently introduced a custom coin called "The Business Card for Keeps," on which you can place the name of your firm, the logo, address, phone number and a promotional message. It is made of solid metal, for durability, and is equally at home on a desk, in a wallet, or wherever you choose to keep it.

Hoffman & Hoffman also markets Walkaways, a very effective promotional token that stays in the customer's pocket after he or she leaves such places as an arcade or car wash, for example. At first glance, a Walkaway might be considered an extra expense because business owners can't "recycle" it, so they must buy more. However, the redeeming factor lies in the advertising and promotional opportunities created by these tokens.

The use of custom coins as coupons is undergoing a renaissance today in such businesses as hair salons, restaurants and grocery stores. Special-events coordinators use them as admission tickets. They can be counted mechanically, stored and re-used during a multi-day event, such as a food fair. Many clubs use consecutively numbered coins as VIP membership cards. Fitness clubs, for example, issue the coins to members, who may then show them for discounts at local athletic-wear shops.

For further information regarding the many uses of tokens and coins, contact Hoffman & Hoffman at P.O. Box 896, Carmel, CA 93921-0896; or phone 1-800-227-5813.

Star Tech Sets Seminar Dates

CHICAGO—A regional seminar program, designed for advancing coin-op technicians, and administered by Star Tech Journal of Merchantville, New Jersey, has been in progress for the past several months, with much success. The sessions are staged at distributorships across the country and consist of two full days of instruction geared to advance service personnel in the skills of troubleshooting and the repair of coin-operated games.

The current list of seminar dates includes the following: June 2-3 at Mountain Coin (Las Vegas, NV); June 9-10 at Dunis Distributing (Portland, OR); June 16-17 at First Choice Coin (Denver, CO); June 23-24 at H.A. Franz & Co. (Houston, TX); July 14-15 at Central Distributing (Omaha, NE); July 21-22 at Hanson Distributing (Bloomington, MN); July 28-29 at Mountain Coin Phoenix, AZ; August 25-26 at Commercial Music (Dallas, TX); and September 22-23 at Cleveland Coin (Livonia, MI).
